RELIVE... REMEMBER... RETREAT!

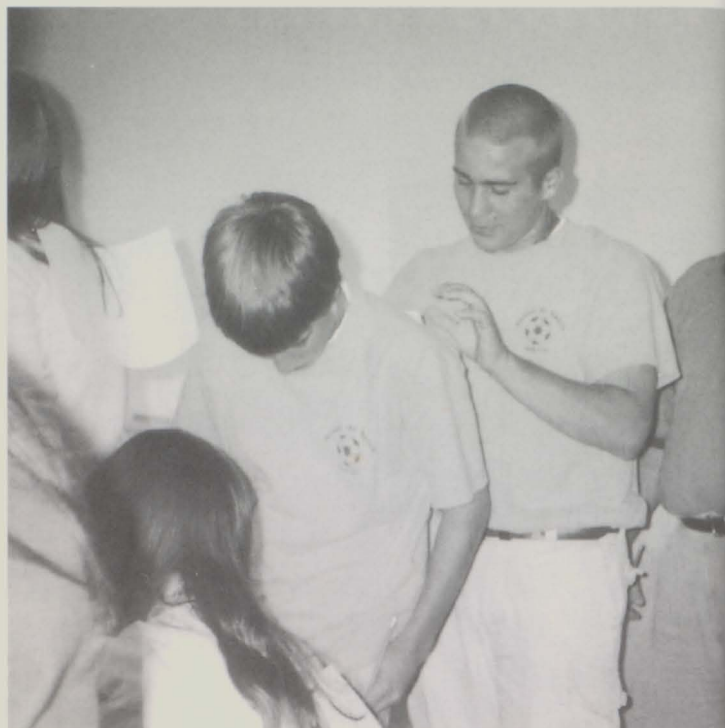

STUDENTS HAVE A DAY TO REFLECT

What to write Brandon Mahoney, Coach Macsey, and Aubrey Sell write nice things about each other. Retreat activities encourage positivity among students.

This is puzzling.. Matt McCrory and Brain Mears look at their clues for the puzzle. Retreats gave the seniors a chance to work together.

All eyes on you. Robert Wooley speaks to his fellow classmates about the meaning behind the candle-light service. Each candle stood for a prayer for the upcoming school year.

Who will win? Kyle Perry and Jim Fuerniss play a game during the middle school retreat. Relaxing and having fun was the main goal of all the students.

She sure is cute! Mary Katherine Stewart holds a little girl from the DFACS daycare center. Students loved interacting with the younger children.

Once upon a time. Phillip Stewart reads to a child from the DFA daycare center. The freshman retreat gave the class a chance to give back to the less fortunate.

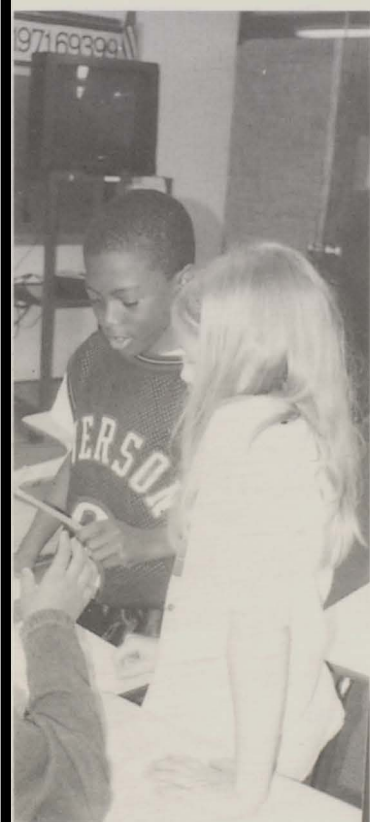

This little light of mine. Franklin Smith lights a candle at the prayer service. This part of the day was set aside for the students to reflect on their lives.

Easy does it! Bryan Benton carefully passes Mary Wiggins to a group of awaiting juniors. Trust was the major focus of the junior retreat.

Hmm..My favorite what? Karen Marshall fills out an information sheet at her retreat. The sheet helped the seniors find out more about each other.

Looking good! Nathan Masters puts classmate Leslie Jenkins in the picture perfect pose. Retreats gave all students a chance to have fun with their friends.

Don't break the ice! Mary Kea Huckabee watches as Archie Swain knocks out an ice block. Middle schoolers played games that demonstrated their relationships with God.

Trapped! Ronnie Kelsey attempts to get through a difficult maze. This kind of worksheet helped stimulate the students' minds and make them think.

A well oiled machine. Ashley Barwick, Charlie Cassidy, and Philip Harvey construct a human machine. Activities like this one got the middle schoolers to work together.

WELCOME TO THE ANCIENT WORLD

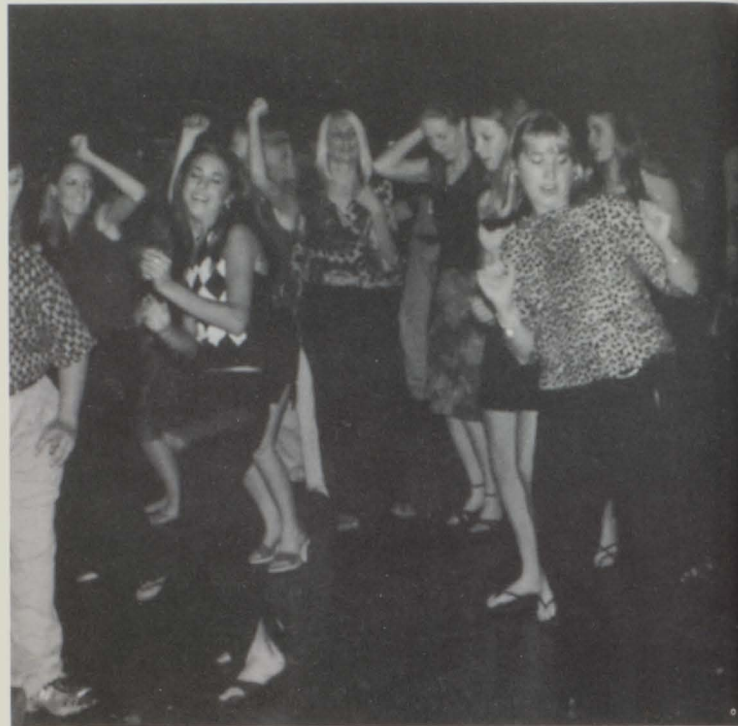

HOMEcoming 2002

Slide to the left. Students show their fly dance moves as the DJ plays a popular song. The dance brought an end to the enjoyable festivities of homecoming week.

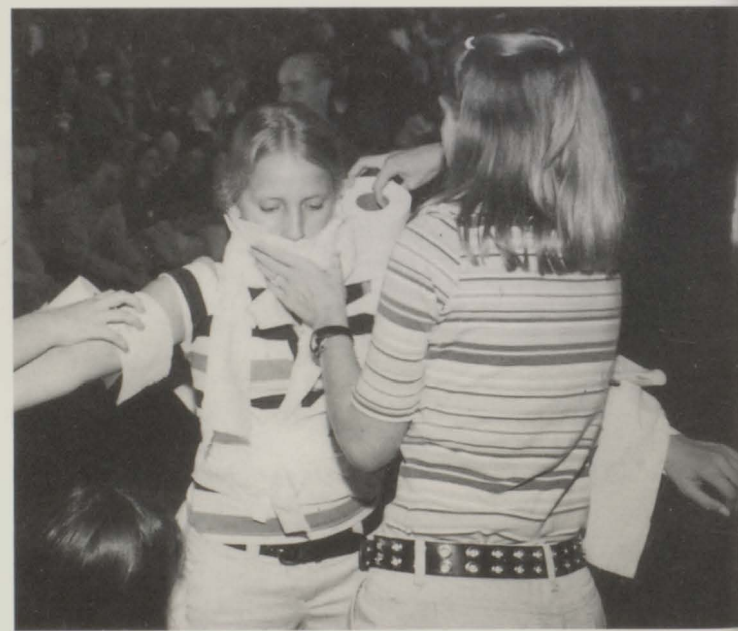

Bring out your dead! Four senior boys exhibit their monk costumes on dress-up day. Portrayal of "Monty Python" uniquely incorporated the Ancient World theme.

Ready, set, go! Anxious faculty wait to run and build a human pyramid. Unlike students, their pyramid structure consisted of people lying flat on top of one another.

The life of a queen. Jessica Willbanks combs the wig of Lacey Young, who is dressed as Cleopatra. Lacey was pampered like the queens of ancient times.

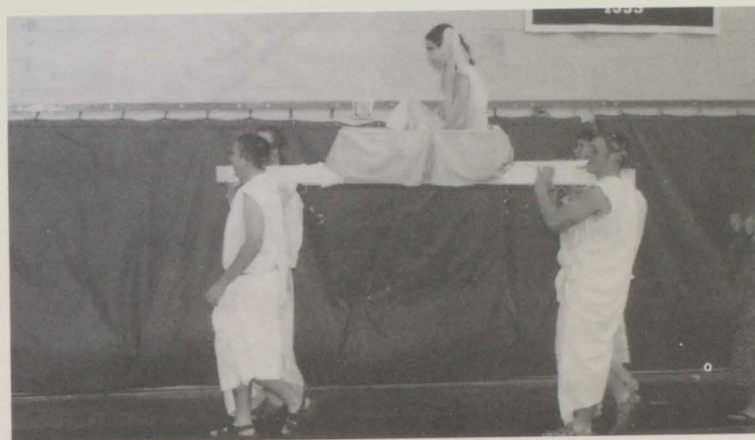

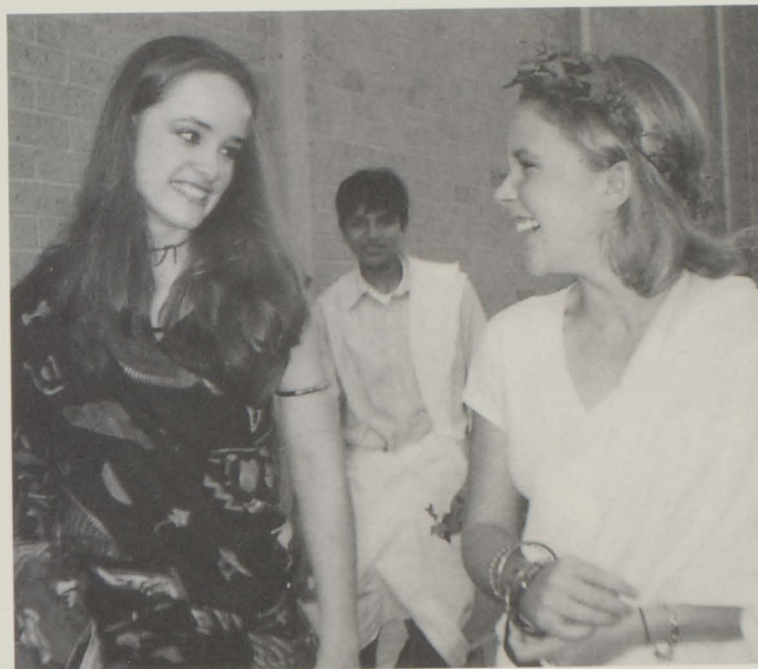

Two cool cats. Brandon Monroe and Jon Lewis strut like "playas" from ancient worlds. This creative costume managed to include both modern and ancient characters.

Wrap it up. Savannah Ulker gets wrapped in toilet paper by fellow classmates. The mummy wrap competition was one of numerous thrilling contests.

A line of royalty. Various high school girls pose in their queen and goddess costumes. Such costumes allowed students to visualize and learn about past times.

Joy, joy, joy! Sam Chronister and Haley Huckabee share a moment of laughter. Events during homecoming lifted students' spirits and relieved the usual stress of school.

A magic carpet ride. Leslie Jenkins portrays Jasmine from "Aladdin" as her servants carry her. Fictional characters were also conveyed in the homecoming theme.

What creativity! Nicky Frady, Daniel Harrison, and Erik Hardison thought of such fanciful costumes. Unlike other costumes, there were no duplicates worn by other students.

Strength and honor! Mickey Upchurch stands his ground as the "Gladiator." He was one of many students who went all out to fully play their roles.

A sleeping god. Will Young takes a little shut-eye during class. The many spirited homecoming events were enough to exhaust most students.

Keep unrolling. A group of classmates hurries to fully cover Jimmy Cassidy in toilet paper. Competition like this required group effort and fast action.

RETURN TO THE ANCIENT WORLD

Go, team, go! Junior boys cheer on their girls during the powderpuff game. The guys loved showing their support in the cheerleaders' uniforms.

Yum, yum! A group of juniors savor their pizza and each other's company. The pizza lunch was just one of the fun activities in which students took part.

Workin' hard. Eleni Dermatas works hard as she prepares decorations for the pep rally. Students loved to help out when it came to pep rallies.

Following the Eightfold Path. Josh "Buddha" Rowland walks into the football game still in costume from dress-up day. This year's costumes were the best ever!

Dancin' fever. Liz Gaughf and Katie Beall have fun boogying the night away. The dance was a great way to end a great homecoming week.

Chowin' down. A group of eighth graders devours their pizza as they enjoy a special one hour homecoming lunch. Everyone loved their pizza on this fantastic day!

Walk like an Egyptian. The faculty wraps Mr. Mac from head to toe in toilet paper during the mummy wrap. The close point to it also meant that losing was not an option.

Hold that pose. Seventh graders get into position for a pyramid during a homecoming competition. They were the fastest class, with a time of under five seconds.

The roof is on fire. Juniors cheer and dance together after the powder puff game. The bonfire added a sense of school spirit to student morale.

Go long. Ms. Rutenber prepares to launch the frisbee to another teammate. Middle schoolers had lots of fun playing ultimate frisbee instead of powder puff.

Three's company. Amy Olson, Ashton Richardson, and Kaitlyn Stockslager watch a game of frisbee. Ultimate was a new addition to homecoming events.

Feelin' the heat. Blake Mears and Joseph Kiefer shield themselves from the heat of the bonfire. The bonfire, usually held in the trap-ezoid, was at the fields this year.

TOGETHER

WITH ALL THE CAVALIERS

Say Cheeeed Sisters Mary Sheridan, Mary Rosina, Lillian Quadrella, and Geraldine Yerg are honored at the Mercy Day assembly. The service's focus was "Hearts for Mercy."

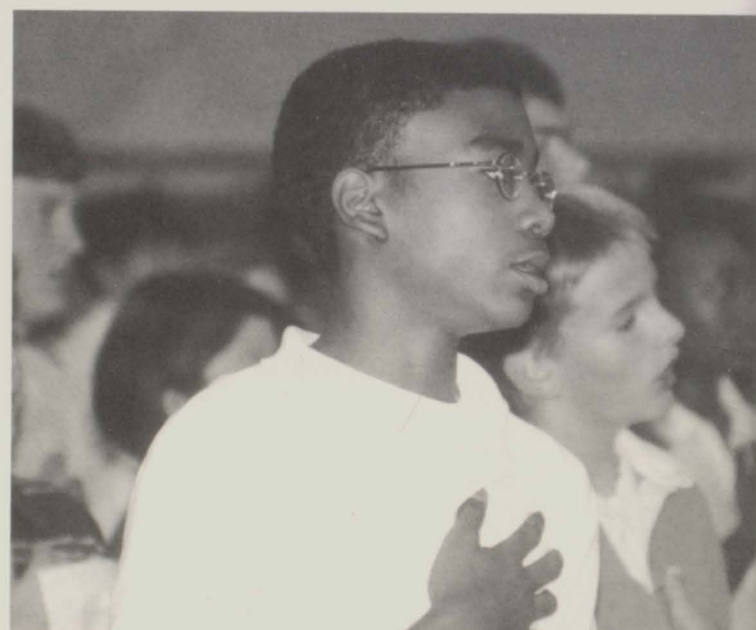

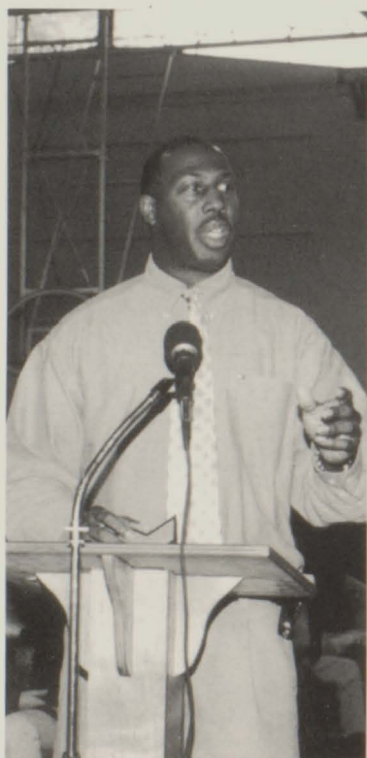

Togetherness... Students and teachers gather for the "See You at the Pole" campaign. Students all over came together and prayed during this annual event.

And to dust you shall return. Father Brett gives a sermon on the meaning of Ash Wednesday. Every year students and faculty are reminded to repent their sins.

Acolyte in action! Colin Booth awaits his cue to proceed to the altar during mass. Many students volunteered to be altar servers in school masses.

And the chevron goes to... Coach Slocumb hands out awards during the sports recognition assembly. Being one of the coaches, he was proud of the team's hard work.

And to the republic... Quentin Jude shows respect for his country by reciting the pledge of allegiance. The pledge and a short prayer began every assembly and homeroom.

All together now... Mr. Tyner directs the middle school chorus members. Occasionally, the middle school chorus sang at school assemblies.

In His name we pray... Father Cuddy gives his sermon during the All Saints Day mass. Everyone enjoyed his sermons at other masses as well.

O beautiful for spacious skies... The chorus sings songs of our country. Students and faculty wore patriotic colors for the Remembering 9/11 assembly.

Amen... Sister G and Mr. Midkiff pray at the "See You at the Pole" meeting. This was a time when everyone could come together and pray as one.

Where's the fire? NYC Firefighter Richard Sarcelli enters the gym to a round of applause. Students were eager to hear firsthand accounts from September 11.

Helping hands... Patricia Tran ties her friend, Erin Stroupe's yarn around her wrist. The colored strings symbolized patriotism and unity.

Blessed are the merciful... Ashton Richardson reads a Bible passage during the Mercy Day assembly. Students also took part in honoring the Sisters of Mercy.

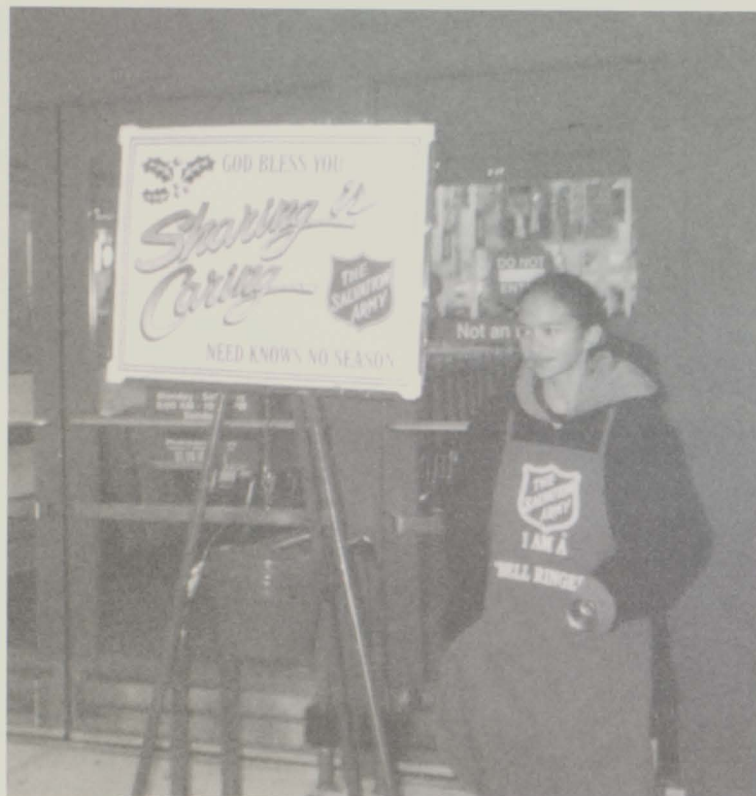

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

THE MOST WONDERFUL TIME OF THE YEAR

Jingle Bells... Anna Bernal raises money for the Salvation Army. Ringing the bell gave students an opportunity to help those in need during the Christmas season.

Ho Ho Ho... Cara Whitley hopes for candy instead of coal bags. Both high school and middle school enjoyed participating in Kris Kringle this year.

Winter Wonderland... Middle School student council members sell goodies in the Kris Kringle shop. Spongebobs were the top sellers and sold out after the first day.

Here comes Santa Claus... Amy Olson and Ashton Richardson are revealing their gifts. Gift giving is often the best part of Christmas for students.

A visit from St. Nick... Franklin Smith gathers presents for the Christmas drive. Each homeroom sponsored a child, bringing in clothes, toys, and other gifts.

What was your favorite Christmas gift.

Michael Hughes

CD player
I was happy because I have wanted one for such a long time.

Chase Henderson

Flat screen TV
It's really cool because it's the latest version of TVs.

Scooby Chia Pet
I am going to love watching Scooby grow.

Sade Bentley

Money
I have a lot of things to pay for this year.

Solomon Sewell

Deck the halls... Mrs. Kersey and Mrs. Harris decorate for the Candlelight Carol service. Families purchased poinsettias to honor or commemorate their loved ones.

'Tis the season to be jolly... Katie Blackburn eagerly opens a present from a friend. Christmas marked the half way point of the year to seniors.

Jolly Old St. Nick... Mr. Kemp does his part to bring alive the spirit of Christmas. Students looked forward to the chorus' performance for guaranteed laughs.

CELEBRATE!!!

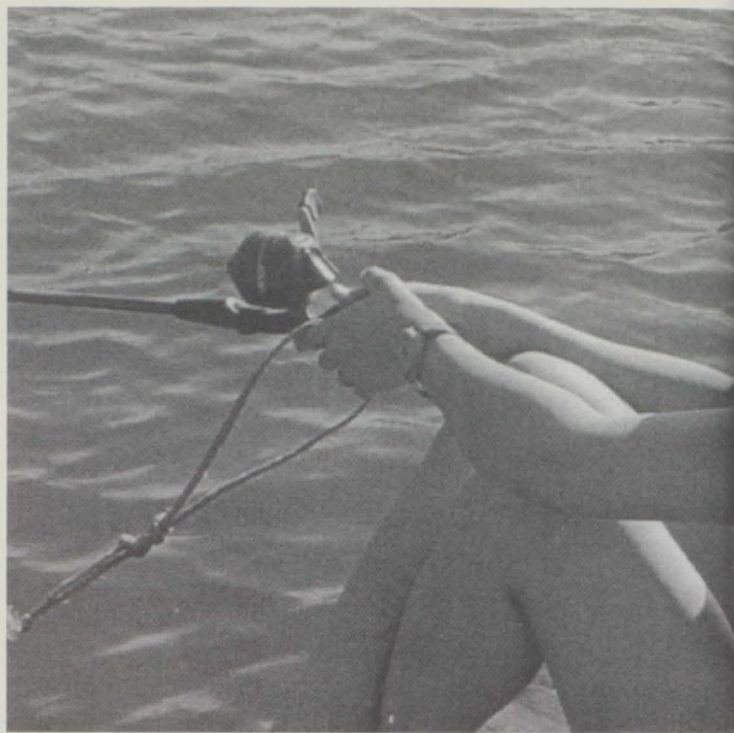

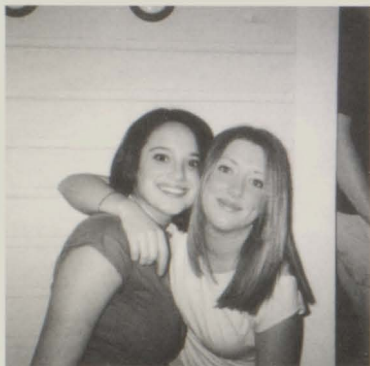

STUDENTS CUT LOOSE...

Sittin' by the dock of the bay, Laurel Rivers relaxes with a little day of fishing. Although she didn't catch the big one, this day helped her get back in touch with nature.

Next stop, the beach! Lauren Patch and Ashley Stokes retreat to Panama City for some R&R. Sunny days brought smiles to the faces of everyone.

Party animals... Sara Suchower and Rebekah Stiff pose before heading in to the party. Students used the time off to party, then to catch up on sleep.

Let's go! Rachael Conn heads to the car with her friend. Getting to spend time with friends was one of the best parts of spring break.

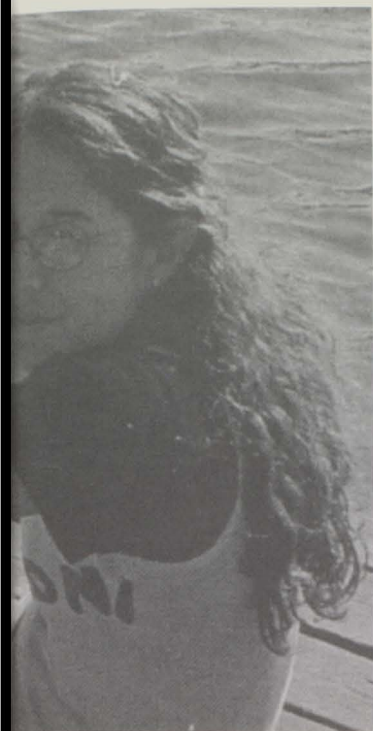

Winter wonderland... Shannon Heenan pushes her brother, Terence, down a hill. Since they don't see snow often, they made sure this day was one to remember.

Wild times... Kibby Pearce holds a snake at Wild Adventures. Snake handlers had to be very careful when handling such a dangerous creature.

Between the hemispheres... Leo Mitchell and his family straddle the hemispheres in Ecuador. As a family, they were able to stand in both the northern and southern hemispheres.

Wheeeee... Drew Edwards pushes Elizabeth Abell around in a shopping cart during Christmas break. Even the cold weather did not stop students from having fun.

Down on the water... Camille Dizon, Alex Wright, and Jennifer Oliver hang out on the beach. The beach was a popular destination for student vacations.

Horsing around... Ashley Crooms takes part in an equestrian competition. It took an extreme amount of patience to work with these animals.

Where the wild things are... Samantha Chronister and friend pause for a photo at Zoo Atlanta. Animals and friends made for a wild day.

Glad to have you here... Kyle Prebble poses for a photo with his aunt. Relatives often came from far away to make the holidays very special.

Let's celebrate... Quentin Jude celebrates Christmas with his family. The holidays were times for students to celebrate with their families and friends.

GIRLS JUST WANNA HAVE FUN!

GIRLS POWDERPUFF

Oh-Fo! The junior girls powderpuff football team poses for a picture after a tiring game. This competition gave the girls a chance to show school spirit and to have fun.

Go long! Lindsey Williams prepares to throw the ball down field to a teammate. Communication between players resulted in great passes and touchdowns!

Fast as lightning! Nneka Nwogu streaks by her competitors looking for a chance to make a winning play. Players' reflexes and good sense culminated in high scoring games.

I got it! Adrienne Garofalo shields the ball from the opposing team. These games brought out the fierce defensive skills of the players.

I got spirit! Adrienne Howard cheers for her team while taking a break from the action. Support from classmates was an integral part of many teams' wins.

BLACK HISTORY MONTH

LOOKING BACK INTO THE PAST AND INTO THE FUTURE

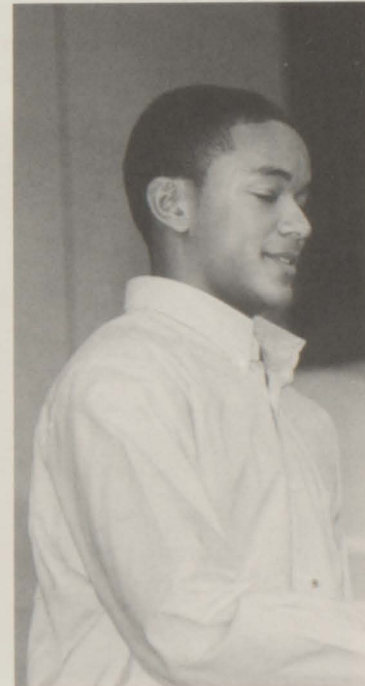

Mrs. Prebble and special guest speakers, Dr. Ronald Swain, Hampton Swain, and Chief Rosemary Cloud, pose for the camera at the Black History program.

Listen Up! Brandon Monroe introduces Mount de Sales' first black graduate. Students involved in this event were honored to recognize these speakers.

Good Morning... Valkyrie Anderson reads about an African American on the announcements. These biographies were a great way to celebrate Black History Month.

We Are Family. Kim Roberts stands proudly next to her aunt, Chief Rosemary Cloud. The speakers awed the audience with their outstanding accomplishments.

Flying Solo. Solomon Sewell recites a poem, "Caged Bird," at the Black History program. Students put in a lot of time and effort to prepare for this event.

HAVING FUN IN THE SUN

ON HAPPY FUN DAY

Steady. Kristi Beall climbs up the layers of students to the top of the pyramid. The seniors recorded the fastest time, therefore, winning the competition.

Let the Games begin! Kyle Prebble gets ready to compete with Luke Mummert in jousting. This activity was enjoyed by participants and spectators.

Yew-haw! Chase Henderson smiles for the camera while riding the bull. Many students attempted this new activity at Happy Fun Day.

On your mark... Kayla Nessing and Katie Beall discuss their game plan before the 3-legged race. Students toppled as they raced to get to the finish line.

This is easy! Ms. Dixon climbs the rock wall with ease and great speed. Students and faculty participated in the events at Happy Fun Day.

Chow down! These students break from lunch to pose for the camera. Lunch time at Happy Fun Day allowed students to rest and gain energy.

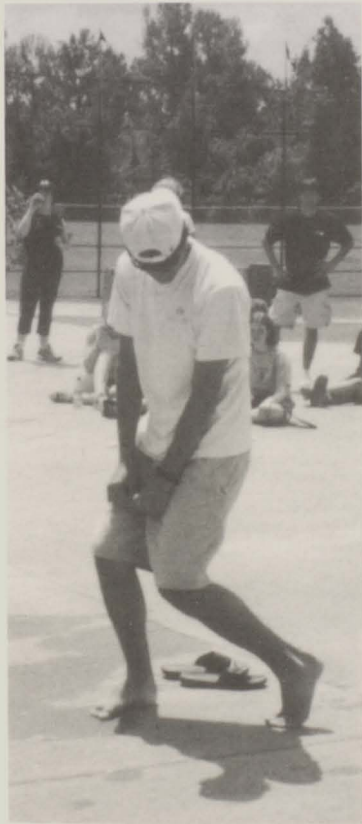

Don't Stop! Solomon Sewell entertains his audience in the hula-hoop competition. This was one of the many activities that students enjoyed watching.

I'll shuffle, you deal... Chelsea Bunn and Kellye Lewis play a game of cards in the field house. Students really liked the idea to use the field house this year.

The rules go like this... These sophomores ponder over a board game in the field house. The field house proved to be a great hide out from the scorching sun.

Whoa! David Bushey tries to maintain his balance on the bungee run. Students ached from this exciting activity the next day.

Work it! Bryan Benton displays his legs for the audience in The Best Legs competition. A freshmen, Trey Deeb, stole the competition with his great legs.

Splash, splash! Mrs. Tyson holds her breath as she gets dunked in the dunking booth. Students found revenge in dunking their teachers in this event.

Hold on! Alexis Scott and Adrienne Howard race to the top of the rock wall. The rock wall provided friendly competition and a little fear and excitement.

HAPPY DAYS

AND FUN NIGHTS

Heave! The senior girls make an effort to overwhelm the opposing team. Each group did a good job representing the strength of their class.

Umm... Patrick Heenan answers the question asked by Mr. Midkiff. Music lovers were able to use their knowledge to help their team score points.

Faster! Brian Mears puts on his game face as Hillary Lipko and Agon Kabaashi race him towards half court. The senior teamwork was helpful to their victory.

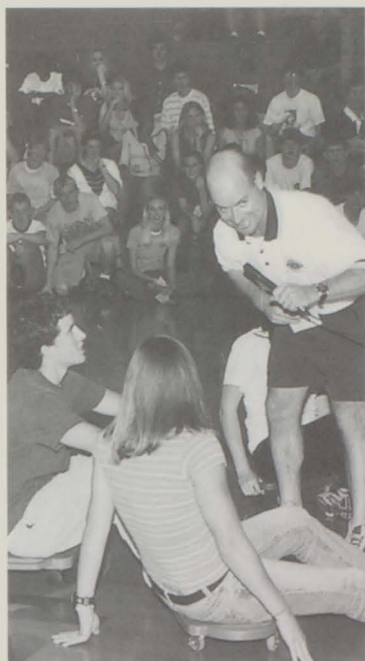

Grrr... Laura Stenbridge pulls with all her might in effort to help her team. The pictures of the faces made by students provided many laughs.

Nothing but net! Brian Jones and Justin Andrews shoot the footballs into the net. The relay provided students a chance to show off their speed.

Circle up. Trey Purvis listens to his classmates shouting out answers. The faster the students could get to half court the better their chances of winning.

Tune it up! Students race to be the first to answer the music trivia given by Mr. Midkiff. These hard questions were no match for the eager listeners.

Hurry! Excited middle schoolers proved their unity in the hula-hoop competition. Teamwork was the key to winning the event.

Pull! The eighth grade girls have no mercy against the opposing team. Even with their hard work, however, they could not overcome the seventh grade.

Straining to Win. Robert Wooley, John Michael Cunard, and Paul Elsbernd pull furiously. The boys tug-of-war match proved to be one of strength.

Whoa.. Liz Gaughf keeps her balance as she runs to the finish line. The Dizzy-Izzy was a crazy event that everyone looked forward to watching.

Counting Down the Seconds. Mrs. Bentley hurries through the hoop in the faculty competition. Her enthusiasm encouraged her teammates.

It's good! Haley Durr races down the court during the football toss. It was a fast paced relay between students.

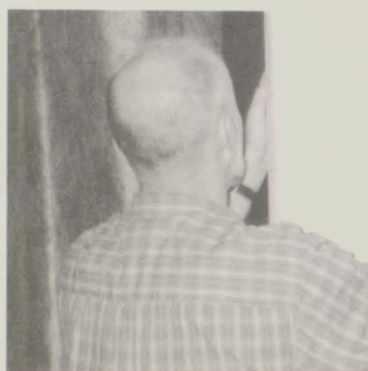

CREATING A FAIRY TALE

PIECING IT TOGETHER

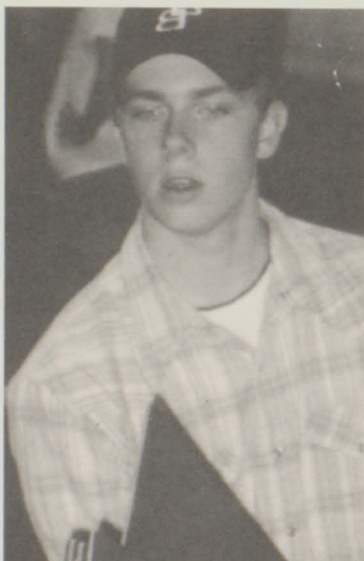

Team work. Chase Henderson and Laura Stenbridge work together to put up lights. Working with a partner helps the work go by quicker.

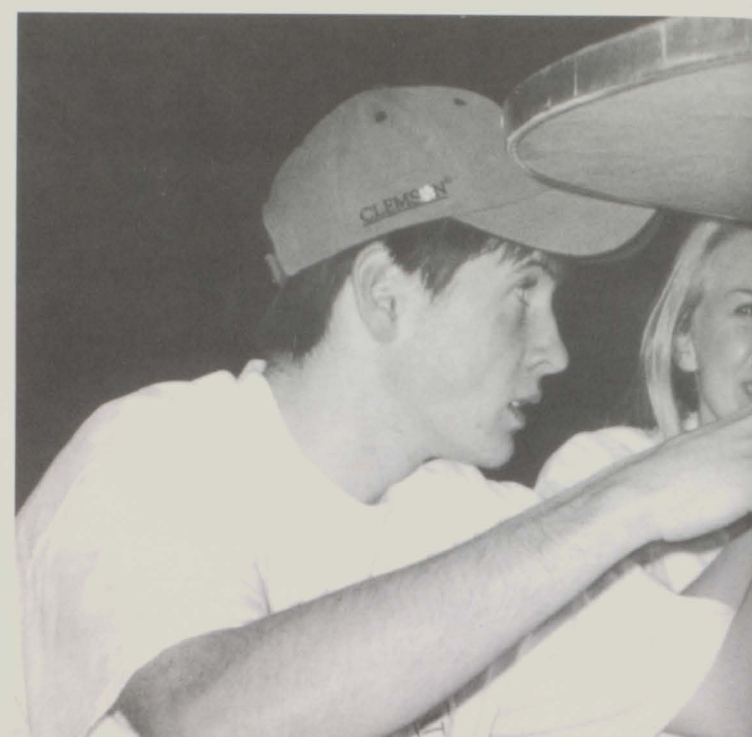

Setting the Scene. Heather Herrick and Mallory Alston strive to perfect their part in decorating. Students took pride in the work they did.

Steady.. Mr Mac measures the pole to see where he should place it. Teachers were always eager to add a helping hand.

Putting it all together. Patrick McAfee creates a magetical background. Students' creativity really shone when it came to special events.

Getting the job done. Jeannine Olivier works hard to get the prom decorations up in time. Setting up the decorations was not a easy task.

Helping out. Teachers and students work together productively to set up lights. Juniors gave up their time to make prom a special event.

What to do next. Mrs. Hutto, Mr. Mac, and Patrick McAfee ponder what to do with their supplies. Teachers offered a helpful guidance to the students.

It's all about the details. Mallory Jones does her part by hanging up the date wall. Date wall decorations are the only souvenir that students can take with them.

Look at them work! Brandon Monroe and Chase Henderson work hard to complete their part of the decorations. Student involvement is important for pulling prom off.

A little goes a long way. Mrs. Hutto works efficiently to add a personal touch to decorations. Everyone played a important role assembling the parts of prom.

Grrr... Leslie Jenkins and Winslow Rumph battle with the duct tape. Unexpected situations came up that students had to deal with.

Staying on the move. Nathan Masters helps to carry a key element of the decorations. All the volunteers played an important role in prom.

Once upon a time. The juniors hard work finally comes together. Decorations always added a magical touch to the evening.

ONCE UPON A TIME

JUNIOR/SENIOR PROM

Refreshment: Seniors John Wright and Katie Blackburn take a break from dancing to get a drink. Students often got thirsty while dancing the night away.

Picture Perfect: Solomon Sewell and Alexis Scott smile as they walk down the leadout stage. Seniors enjoyed being recognized by their family and friends during leadout.

A little help: Mandy Thomas helps Rainey Pearson with some last minute adjustments. Friends were a big help in getting ready for prom.

It's electric! Everyone makes their way on to the dance floor for the electric slide. The famous dance was always on the request list for prom.

Nothing left to do but dance!
A group of junior girls steal the spot-light on the stage. Prom was the perfect night to show off their best moves.

What was your best memory from prom this year?

My best memory from Prom was finally being able to walk in leadout.
-Brittany Hartley

Taking a picture with Jon Lewis was the highlight of the night.
-Betsy Pittard

The best part was riding around all night in the limo with my friends.
-Ryan Graycheck

Seeing all the fine ladies in their dresses.
-Jon Lewis

Three's Company. Geoff Walker interrupts Agon Kabashi and Emily Pittard during a dance. The spirit of the night kept students dancing till the very end.

Pucker Up. Drew Edwards waits anxiously as Lauren Patch and Bekah Stiff lean in. Friends gathered before the prom for less formal pictures to be taken.

Don't Trip! Lyndsey Pye's date escorts her down the walkway for leadout. The memorable tradition was a highlight of the night for seniors.

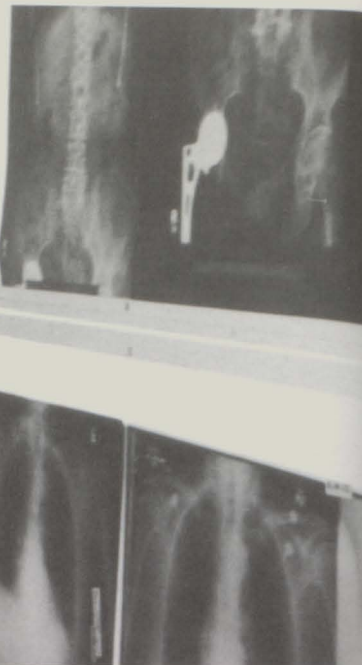

SHOW ME THE MONEY

ALL WORK AND NO PLAY

Hmmm, I need a break... Lauri Stenbridge contemplates some x-rays at the Medical Center. Students' jobs were a place for learning as well as working.

Welcome! Mandy Thomas promotes the restaurant where she hostesses. Students relished the experience and responsibility that came with jobs.

Look how strong he is! Daniel Stefano arranges some of the stock at Mansour's. Work was not always exciting, but was a good source of extra spending money.

Safety first! Meaghan Slonaker instructs a customer on how to put on her harness. She had to be well informed in order to keep the patrons of Starcadia safe.

Fold the corners neatly! Nancy Dismuke prepares the massage table for a customer. Students found job possibilities around every corner.

What's up dawg?! Gina Tamboli excitedly shows us her best smile as she leaves school. Leaving school was usually the best part of the day.

JOYRIDE

LIFE IN THE FAST LANE

On the run... Vinni Cavaliere tries to dodge the camera while grabbing books out of his car. Students always tried to get out of a yearbook picture.

Where is she? Anxious middle schoolers wait on their rides at the end of the day. Many students didn't have the luxury of being able to drive.

I know it's here somewhere... Kyle Schuchmann frantically rummages through his trunk. Students tried to keep organized even in their cars.

SIGN OF THE TIMES

EIGHTH GRADERS CELEBRATE GEORGIAN HERITAGE

Do re mi... The eighth grade are led in song by Mr. Tynne. The Grandparents and Special Friends program involved the talented singing of the class.

Getting so big! Jake Demarest totes around his younger brother after the program. All of the family was invited to attend the performance.

Caught by the camera! Katie Greer is surprised by the camera at her back. Students found camera flashes distracting at unexpected moments like this.

I have a dream.... Cortney Newmans and Amber Austin tell about Martin Luther King, Jr. These accounts told of people influential to Georgia's history.

How do you do? Emily Heenan talks with her family after the program. Visiting with family was one of the perks of the morning.

This is St. Joseph's Hall... John Giles shows a family member around campus while they chat. Students had the option of giving tours to their guests.

GAME DAY

FUN IN THE SUN

Picture Perfect... Tyler McLaurin, Amanda Dempsey and Alex Heath pose for a Kodak moment. Cavalier Games helped build many friendships.

Here ya go...Mr. Kemp instructs Jake Demerest to hand out cups to those who wanted them. Drinking water throughout the day kept these kids going.

Just Chillin... A group of middle schoolers take a rest while watching others compete. The day was full of fun and games, leaving most students tired.

VOLLEY! Students play a game of Giant Volleyball, knowing the chances of missing the ball were slim. Use of hand-eye coordination was key in this game.

Concentration... Gadsden Henderson gracefully runs through an obstacle course. Games were designed to make students apply their minds and bodies.

HANG TIME

FRIENDS AND FOOD

It's not delivery, it's your mom!
Jonathan Harrison takes pleasure in the pizza that his mom brings him. Students were grateful for these parent lunches.

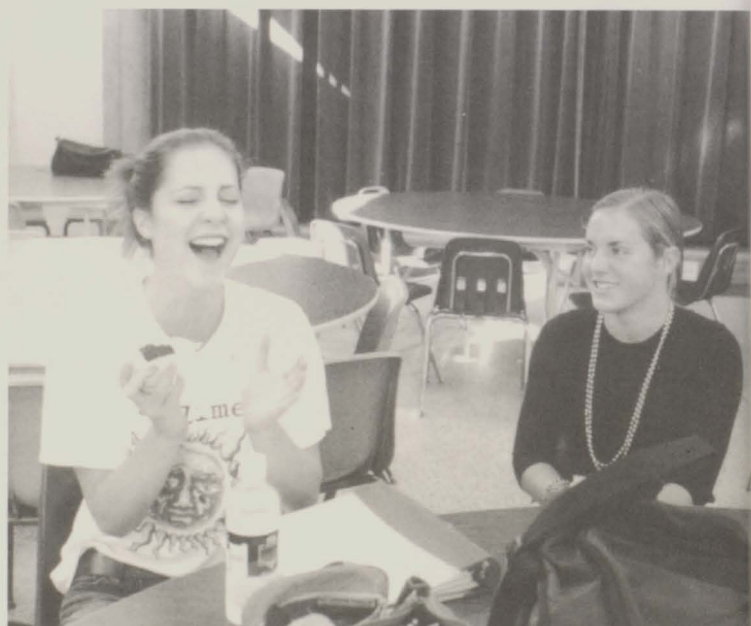

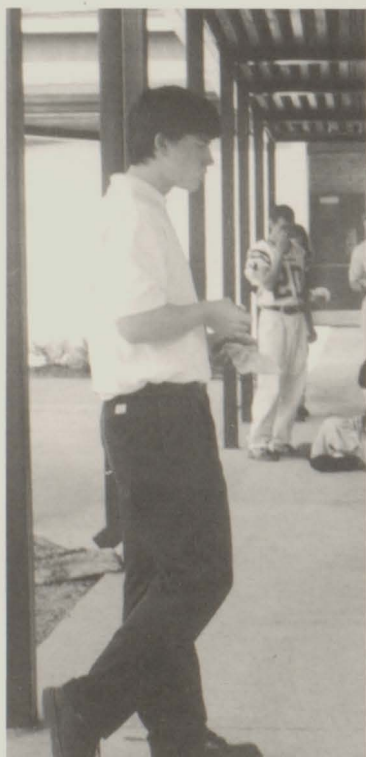

How YOU doin'? Tommy Hurley hams for the camera as Bryan Meeks looks surprised. Students got in touch with their funny side when the camera came by.

Look at those pearly whites! Seniors lounge outside Mercy Hall during free period. They had the choice to remain on or off campus during this time.

Study, study! Rachel Azar and Billy Schwab look over a few class notes during a break. Lunch gave students a chance to cram before a big test.

Mmm, mmm, good... Andy Graves enjoys some fries while opting to eat outside. Even with the construction on campus, students still loved eating outside.

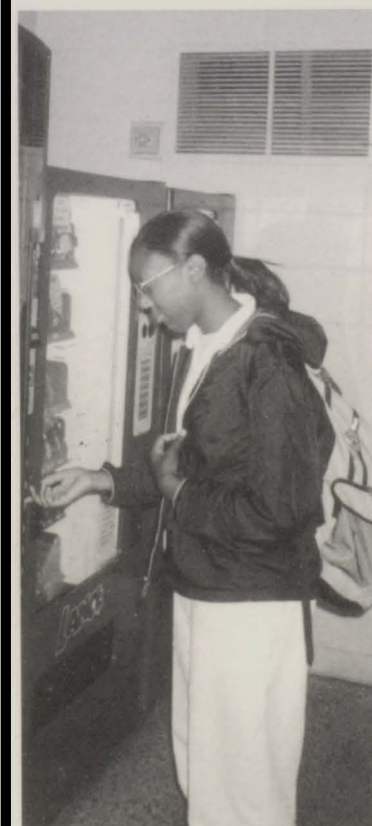

That's hilarious! Joanna Akin cracks up while Bethany Dadisman smiles at her silliness. Eleventh graders found out how much fun free period could be.

Eat responsibly... David Patch makes sure he gets at the head of the line for Papa John's pizza. Everyone was thrilled when pizza was brought to the school.

This is how we do it! Kenny Epps and Jesse Pilkenton show some students their junior class sign. Students had imaginative ways to show off class pride.

It's a crisis! A group of eighth graders discuss the latest gossip at their table. Middle schoolers found lunch to be a perfect time to catch up.

Oops, I did it again... Miriam Sewell licks her finger to eat the last sandwich crumb. Students always savored every bit of their lunch before going back to class.

Choose wisely... Dawn Peterson mulls over her drink choices during lunch. Students tried to make a healthy choice, but sometimes they had to have caffeine.

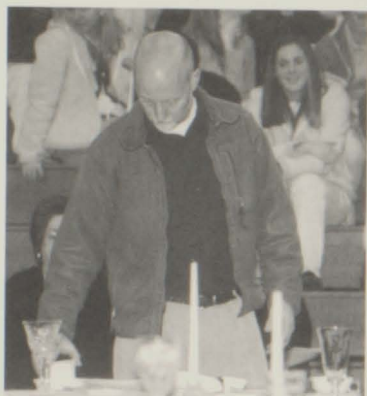

Wink, wink! Bryan Benton strikes a pose for the camera. Sometimes students had to entertain themselves during their free time.

Deer in the headlights... Joshua Schaveland tries to eat his chicken in peace. Lunch period was always rushed, especially on the famous chicken days.

SAINTS, SERVICE, AND SALVATION, OH MY!

Catholic Schools Week

Setting the table... Mr. McLachlan represents the science department in the prayer service. Teachers took an active role in preparing the tables.

This saint... Mallory Murphy describes Saint John Bosco's life during the announcements. Saint descriptions were a bonus during the week.

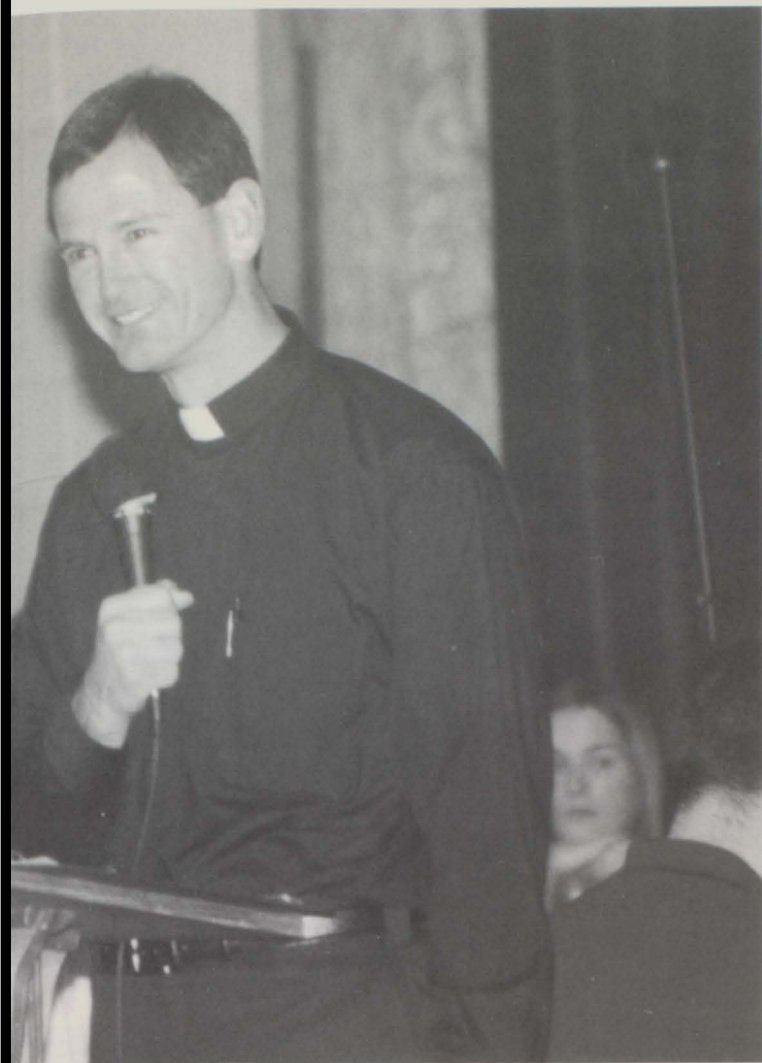

A symbol of peace... The completed table is a picture of peace for the prayer service. Catholic schools were founded on a basis of peace for students.

Let us pray... Robert Wooley leads the school during a prayer. Coming together as a community of students was a significant theme of the week.

A smiling face... Father Brett Brannon is a prominent figure in the celebration of Catholic schools. He has always been a special person to our school.

Who's Your Favorite Saint?

	"Saint Anne" -Laura Stanford

Awesome service... Mr. Davis places the cup for social studies on a table. Teachers and students alike came together for this mass during the week.

Sing along... A group of eighth graders join in for a song during a prayer service. Singing was one way of celebrating Catholic schools around the world.

Bless this table... Father Brett Brannon finishes the service by blessing the tables. Students were challenged to see the tables as a symbol for their lives.

ALL IN GOOD SPIRITS

FIGHT, FIGHT, FIGHT!!!

Looking Good! Freshman Mary Jurgensen applies face paint to Mallory Murphy. Students wore face paint to show their school spirit.

Look at those seniors go! A group of sophomore boys harass the seniors as they run around the gym. The senior run has always been a tradition at pep rallies.

When the Cavs go marching in! The Cavalier Band displays their talent in the Christmas Parade. The band showed their spirit throughout the community.

Ready, aim, fire! Physics students shoot a potato gun during the Homecoming pep rally. The aim was to hit a sign that said Lancers, who the Cavs played that night.

Chowdown! Middle schoolers fill their little bodies with hot dogs at the eating contest. The hot dogs were provided by Nu-Way.

Go MDS! Katie Hatcher, Frances Layfield, and Lindsey Williams show their school spirit during the soccer game. MDS spirit led the boys' soccer team to a state victory.

Ole! Ole! Theresa Jurgensen shows off her spirit at the caravan before a soccer game. Caravans showed opponents our Cavalier spirit.

Stampede! The MDS cheerleaders run off the stage towards center court full of excitement. Pep rallies always pumped up the student body.

D-Fence! Carl Puckett and Brandon Harris hold up a sign to pump up the juniors' powder puff defense. Signs in the crowd always excited any athlete.

We have spirit, yes we do! Erica Zanghi, Sara Sanders, and Christina Rasul cheer during a pep rally. Middle schoolers loved showing their spirit.

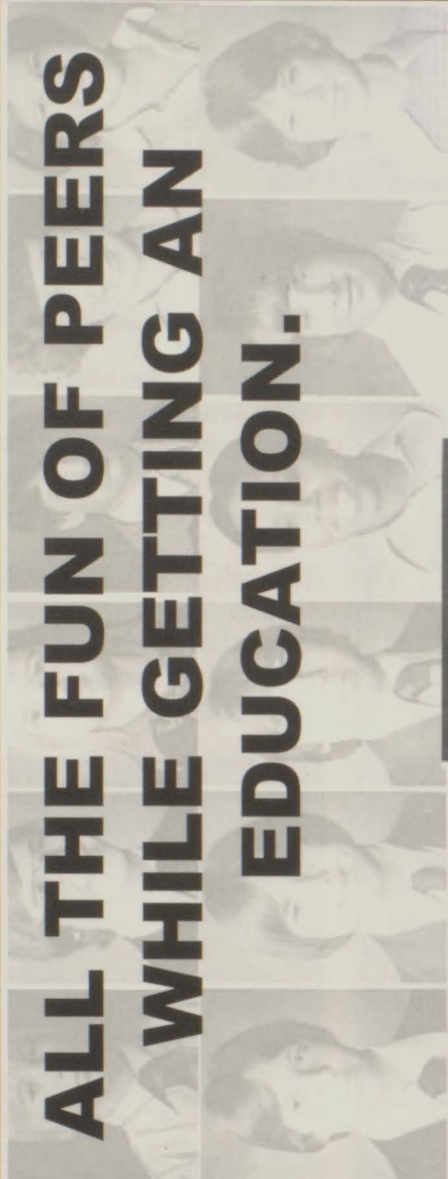

Standin' on top of the world! Candice DuPree and other cheerleaders show off their acrobatic skills. Cheerleaders had to trust one another while performing.

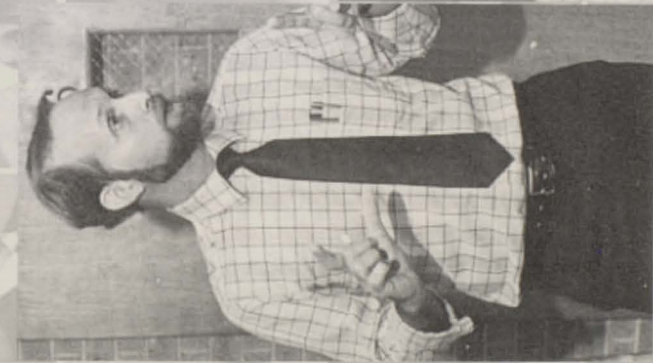

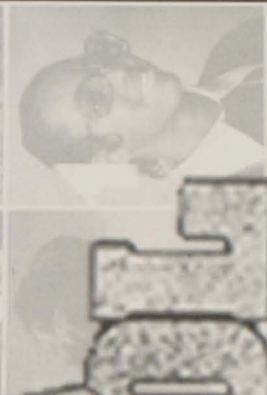

Beware! Hungry Cavalier! Stuart Ogilvie stuffs his face with hot dogs during the eating competition. Despite his efforts, the Sophomores were victorious.

In the heat of the night! Corinne Booth performs in front of the bonfire after the powder puff game. Due to construction bonfires were moved to the fields.

ALL THE FUN OF PEERS WHILE GETTING AN EDUCATION.

MIDDLE SCHOOL FRESHMEN SOPHOMORES JUNIORS

Leading the Way

For our Future Success

Ughh! Coach Freeman looks distressed as he is tackled in the hall. The coaches encouraged players to practice every chance they got.

Not quite cheating. The faculty shows off with their clever pyramid trick. The homecoming activities got very competitive at times.

Can't eat just one. Coach Pierce and Coach Scum take a break at the senior retreat. Without their help, the retreat would not have been possible.

Eat up! This group of teachers sits back and enjoys their lunch. The faculty enjoyed retreat days just as much as the students.

Listen up! Mr. Pierce addresses the school on some new policies in the dress code. He often spoke of new rules at assemblies.

Roughing it. Mr. Dotterer and Mrs.
Mead take in the heat at Camp Martha Johnson. The faculty was responsible for all class retreats.

Stuck in the Middle

Caught on Candid Camera

Ribbon dancer, Up and Down. Katherine Arismantwirls her ribbon at half time of a football game. The flag team was a new addition to the half time show.

Caught on camera. A few middle schoolers are caught unprepared for a candid shot. Pictures were often taken unexpectedly for the best results.

Hip, hip hooray... A group of middle schoolers play games while making life long friends. The retreat was a great time to become closer as a class.

Tick tock... Middle schoolers wait patiently to get their drinks on the pizza lunch day. Pizza day caused mass confusion in the lunchroom and all over the school.

Drawing up a storm... Middle school girls draw and color for middle school decor. Working together formed many happy memories.

Save those pennies... Middle school homeroom representatives collect change for their angel jars. Angel jars were a great way to help out the Nazareth Home.

Go long... Bobby Upchurch throws the frisbee to a classmate during a game of Ultimate Frisbee. Ultimate was a new addition to the middle school homecoming events.

Ohhh, Ahhh... The middle schoolers enjoy a thrilling lecture on the Andersonville gravesites. Field trips were a great learning experience.

What is your favorite part of high school?

A gathering of muses. A group of girls waits eagerly to show off their ancient Egyptian costumes to the rest of the student body. The homecoming theme was the ancient world, and everyone dressed as figures from ancient time.

Movin' On Up

Sophomores On Their Way to the Top.

Study, Study.. Tyler Thompson looks over his notes before class. Students made the most of their free time by studying for tests and quizzes.

Boogie Down! A group of sophomore boys dances the night away at the Winter Formal. Everyone enjoyed being together and having fun on this special night.

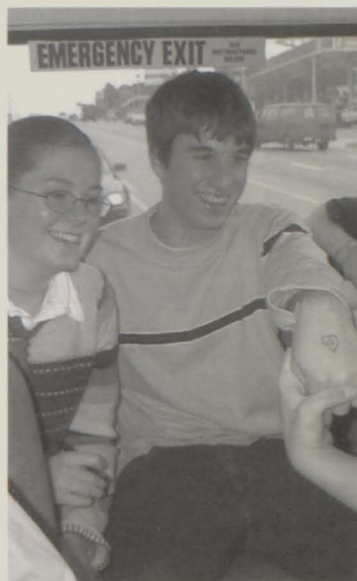

Honesty, Trust... Wendy Walker and Adam Smith fill out a poster about the qualities of a good friend. The sophomore retreat's theme was friendship.

Take it to the top. A group of skilled sophomores make a human pyramid during a homecoming activity. Lots of practice ensured them a top spot in the contest.

Off to class we go! Charles Hampton and David Bivins hurry to their class in the grey cottage. Students had a long walk with little time to get there.

A new tattoo.. Jimmy Smith displays his new body art courtesy of Susan Wright. On long bus trips students had to find ways to pass the time.

Smile! You're on candid camera. Clinton Johnson takes time to smile. Students hated getting pictures taken, but wanted to be in the yearbook.

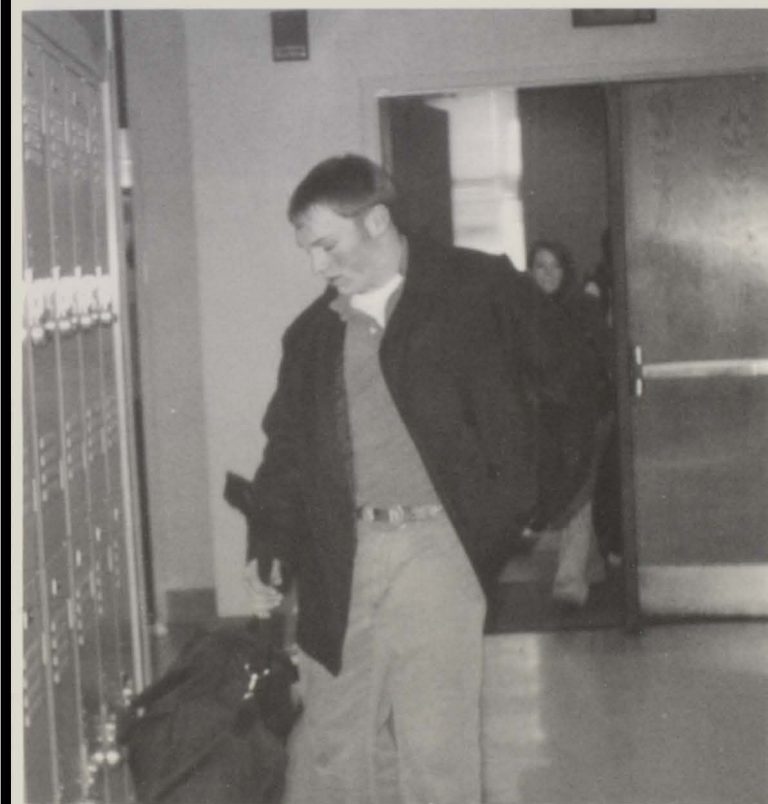

So many things, so little time. Andrew Dockrell tries to figure out what to do in free period. Free period gave students time to do what was needed.

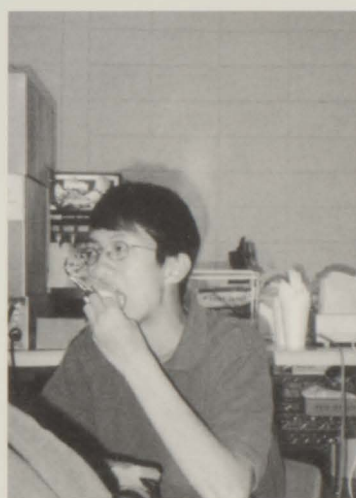

The best pizza under one roof. Stephen Fondal rips apart some pizza during lunch. Pizza was an alternative for students to eat.

Brown bag favorites. Bethany Dadisman empties out her lunch as Erica Deeb tries to get some. Students liked eating cafeteria food, but mom's cooking was tops.

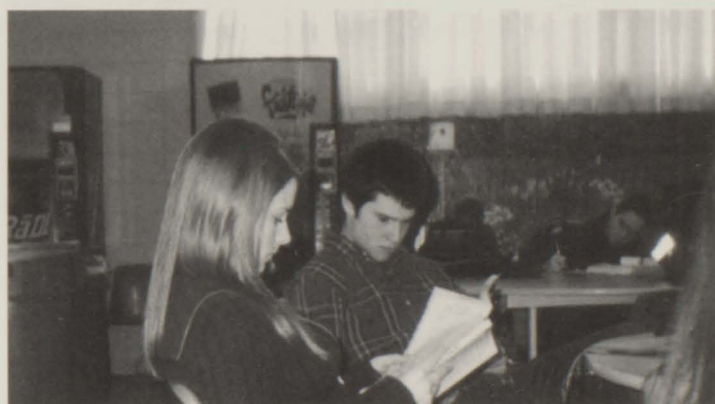

Puttin' the pen to the paper. William Rather is in a hurry to finish his homework. Students rushed to do their homework at the last minute.

Stop and go. Quentin Bishop switches his books before the bell. Students often took their time and socialized at their locker.

Savory and delicious! Jeremy Pohl inhales his Nutri-Grain bar. Students sometimes gave up a greasy snack for a healthy meal.

We be crammin'. Caroline Freliche prepares for class by reading her book. Students always were ready for an unexpected quiz.

Everyday Life

A Little of Everything

Deep in thought... Corey Evans ponders a question asked in class. Questions that arose in class helped students reflect on the day's lessons.

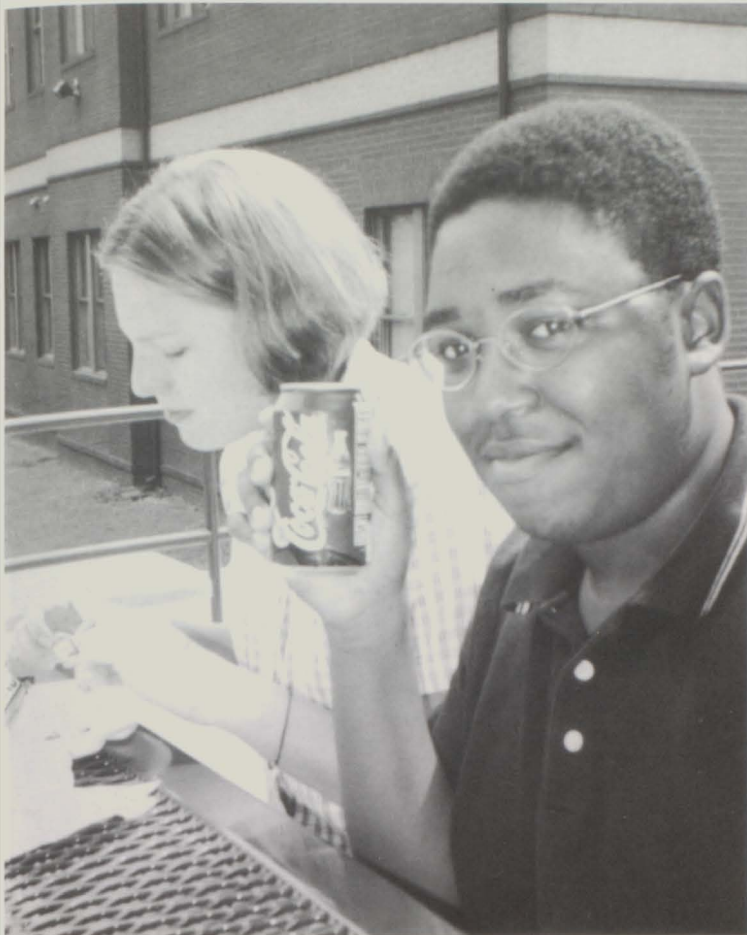

Keeping up... Valkyrie Anderson and Ryan Evans listen attentively during lunch. Conversations at lunch gave students the chance to express their personalities.

Get the show on the road... Ciara Ellison and Kayla Nessing chit-chat while waiting for the bell to ring. Extra time at the end of class allowed students to relax.

Yum!... Mills Misinco begins eating during his lunch break. Lunch refreshed and revived students during the long school day.

Always Coca-Cola... Robert Grant sips his coke while Nicole Moore nibbles on her lunch. Many students were thrilled to be able to eat outside.

Is this my color? Jimmy Smith applies lipstick to give his class a few laughs. Jokes and pranks made school more enjoyable.

Gotta go... Natalee Cooper stops by her locker during the rush between classes. The four minutes seemed to be insufficient for most students.

Cram... Whitney Glover and Lauren Patch review for their next test by using flash cards. Students came up with many ways to study.

On a roll... Betsy Poe and Christine Lopapa hurry to get ready for class. Teachers smiled when students were prepared for the lesson.

Senior Homecoming 2002

The Class of 2003 wins again!

Run Y'all! Franklin Smith leads mummy Amanda Koplin down the gym. The seniors finished the race with a big bang: Amanda ran into the wall.

Peace. Daryl Ebanks and Michael Clowers hold Tyler Cook up during the bonfire. The seniors enjoyed their last Homecoming week together with this event.

Toga! This group of seniors signs a toga-wrapped St. Francis. The Class of 2003 started this new tradition.

Let's Go Cavs! The senior class shows their spirit during Homecoming week. This class had more school spirit than any other graduating class.

Just chillin'. Some seniors gossip during the pizza lunch. Everyone had a good time relaxing and hanging out with friends during this longer lunch period.

And The Winner Is. . .
The King and Queen and their Court

Queen Alex Wright and King Brian Mears

Moving On Up

A spiritual and mental journey.

May the Lord bless you. Father Cuddy gives a blessing to Brad Smith during Moving Up Day. This offered encouragement for a successful year.

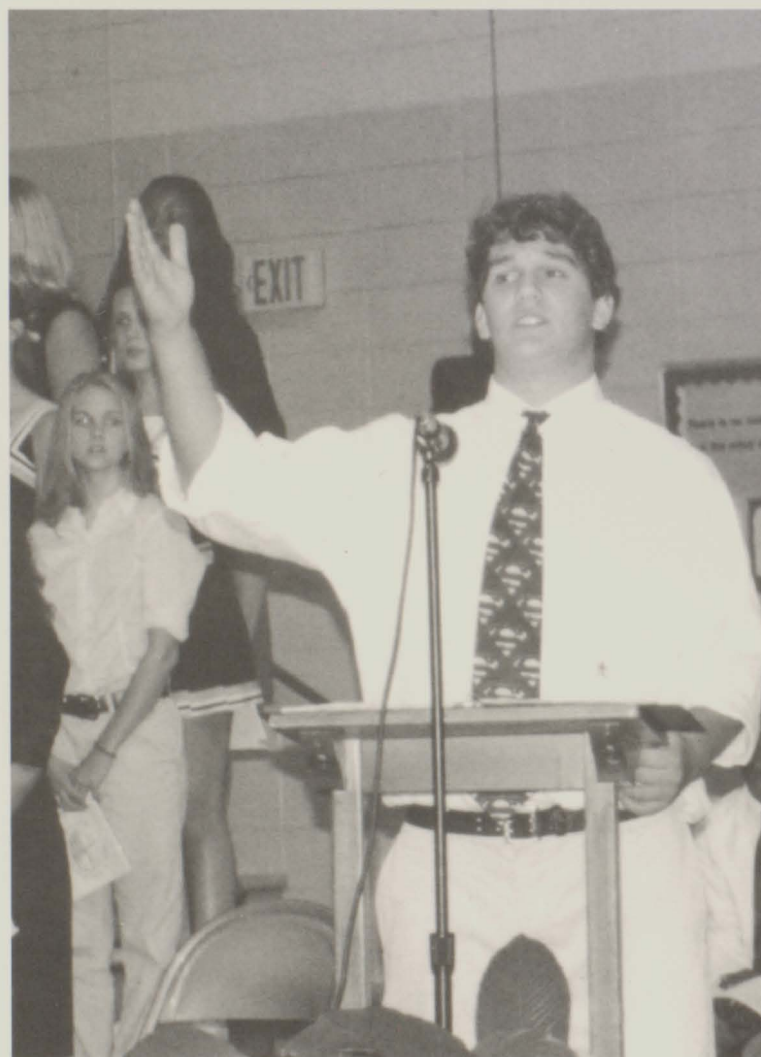

Preaching the word. Father Nijem gives a reflection during the ceremony. Reflection shed some light on the many paths taken during life.

In the name of the Father... Father Cuddy blesses Billy Schwab during the ceremonies. The ceremony helped seniors transition into their role as leaders.

Sing unto the Lord! Robert Wooley, as the cantor, leads Mass by singing the Responsorial Psalm. The Responsorial Psalm was the singing of the scripture.

And the Lord said... Theresa Jurgensen reads a scripture out of the Bible. Seniors showed leadership by taking charge in the Mass.

The Body of Christ. Mrs. Prebble serves Sarah Deesart bread during Holy Communion. Communion symbolizes partaking in the body and blood of Jesus Christ.

Doing our part. John Wright and Chris Jones lead the procession out of the service. Senior volunteers were essential to the Candlelight service.

Don't trip! Emily Pittard and Agon Kabashi serve as candle bearers. Neither wanted to end up on America's Funniest Home Videos next year.

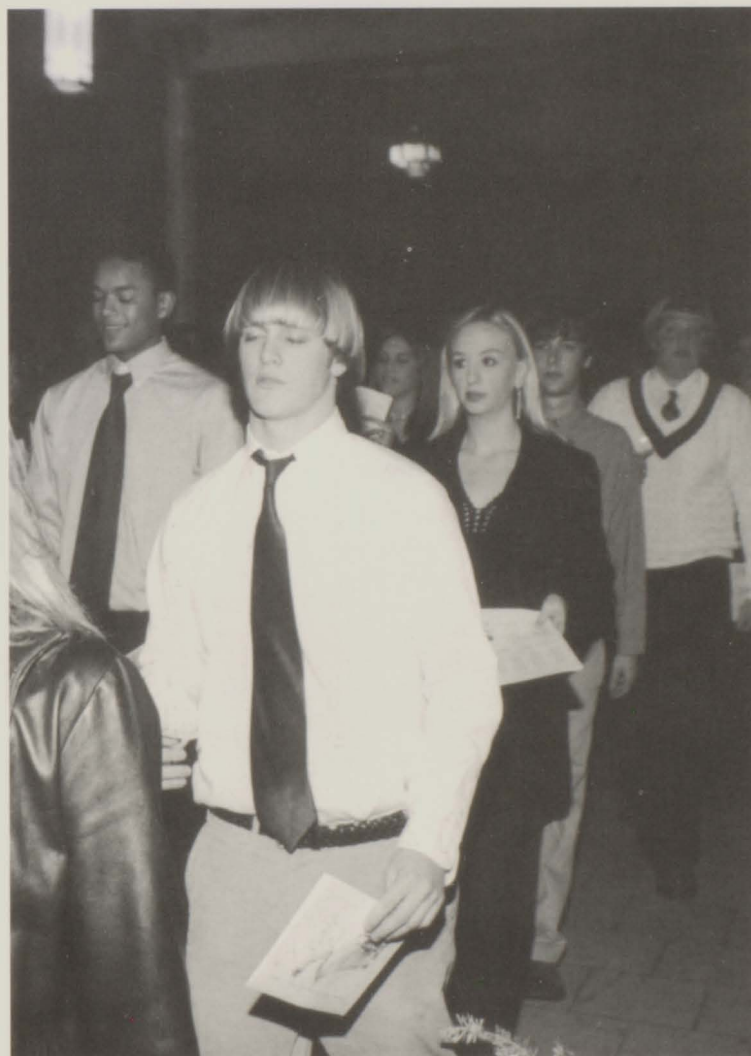

One Light Burning...

The light of our lives.

The reason for the season. The seniors take a moment to reflect on the message they have heard. Quiet moments were rare in the life of a senior.

Singing a jubilant song. Audra Neessing and Billy Schwab join in the singing of Christmas carols. The beautiful music got everyone in the Christmas spirit.

Telling the story. Jenna Schmitt reads a passage detailing Jesus' birth. Seniors took the responsibility of reading the word of the Lord.

We are the light of the world. The seniors make their way into the service together. The candles illuminated the church beautifully.

Senior Honors

The Best of the Best

Standing together: Members of the senior class stand as they are recognized. Senior Honors was a chance for seniors to be honored in front of their peers.

Service to God: Senior Jessica Ashell receives an award in religion from Mrs. Kirkeey. Students were awarded for subjects that they excelled in.

The roaring crowd... The seniors' families applaud as seniors are awarded. Senior Honors was a special time for the students as well as their families.

Congratulations Mrs. Prebble congratulates Theresa Jurgensen on her accomplishments. This was Mrs. Prebble's first year experiencing Senior Honors.

Striving to be the best. Valedictorian, Jennifer Oliver, and Salutatorian, Sarah Dessart, pose together. All of their hard work paid off in the end.

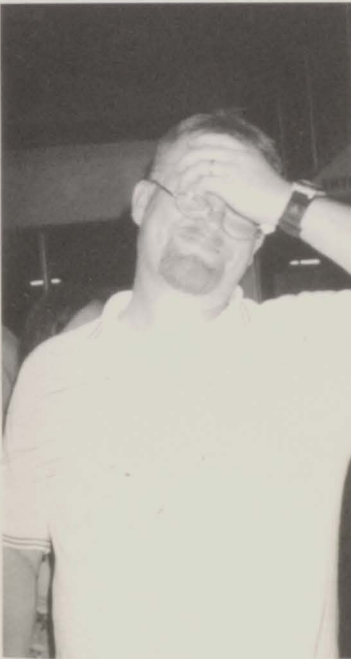

Thank you! Mrs. Washburn thanks John-David Pinkston for the four years he has contributed to the chorus. The teachers would miss the seniors when they left.

The Senior Trip

The Last Adventure

Why, hello... Jennifer Oliver and Jason Spicer take a break from walking. Seniors were exhausted by the end of the day from all the activities they did.

Wake up, Mr. Freeman... Tired Mr. Freeman rubs his eyes at the bright morning sun. The senior trip, although fun, was extremely exhausting.

Off to see the wizard! A group of seniors follow the brick road to the next ride. Friendship was a key element on the Senior trip.

On your mark get set GO! Theresa Jurgensen gets ready to compete in a go-cart race. These races allowed seniors to take out their aggression.

He did it! Katie Blackburn and John Wright buddy up on the bus. Because of all the seniors on the trip, there were not many free spaces available on the bus.

Just the girls... Megan Sightler, Alex Wright, and Wren Federlein head for the next ride. Having someone to ride with made the thrill even better.

A Sacred Celebration

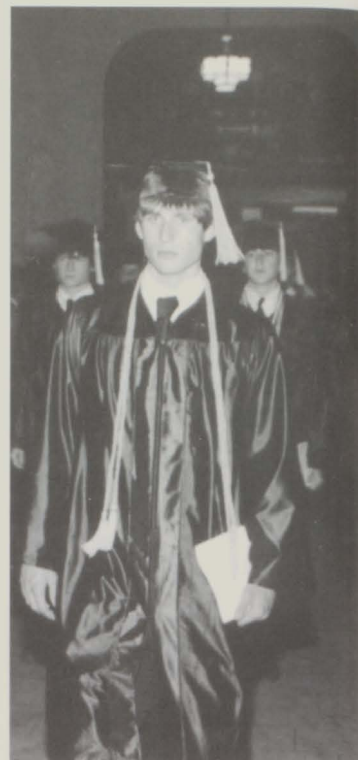

Before the final destination

Gifts of the Offering. Senior boys present the bread and wine for Communion. After forgetting to bring the gifts, Father Cuddy nicely asked the boys to come forward.

Are reading from the Book of... Clark Stallings reads a passage from the Bible. The students' participation in the mass made it very sacred and memorable.

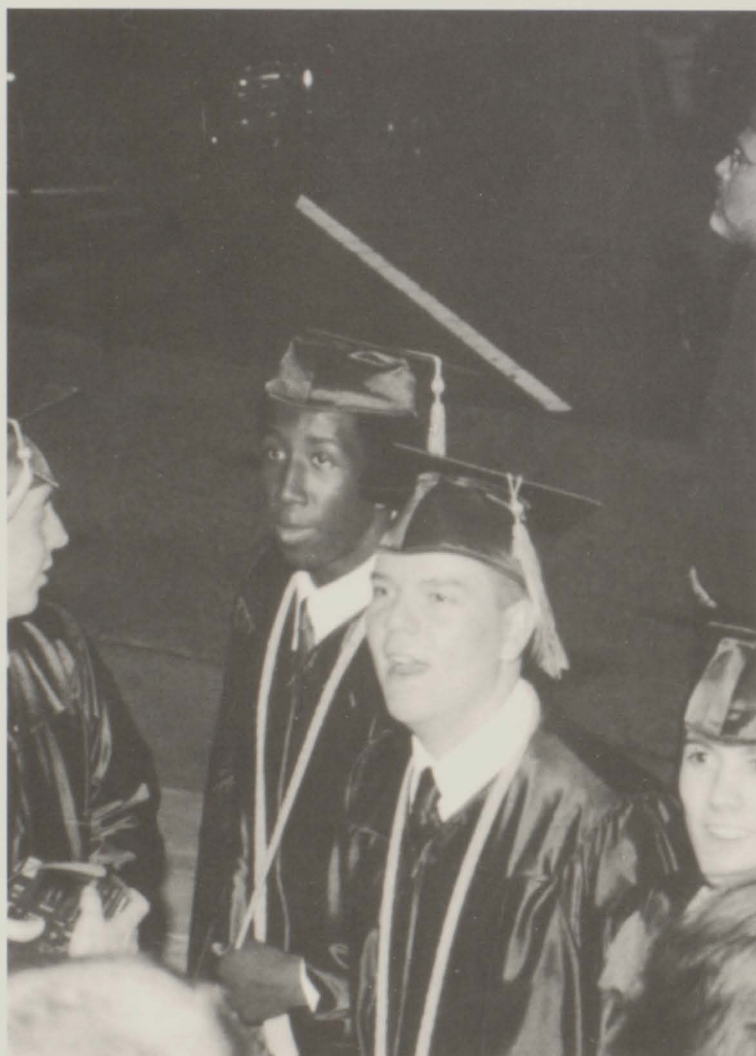

So serious. Colin Booth walks into St. Joseph's Church for Baccalaureate mass. The seniors were expected to be on their best behavior.

Lord, hear our prayer. Alexis Scott petitions a Prayer of the Faithful. The seniors offered up prayers for parents, teachers, and the world.

Next, the main event! Darryl Ebanks and John Wright are pleased to get through the mass. Students were excited about their upcoming graduation.

A song of praise. Hillary Lipko reverently sings a hymn. Students used their melodic voices to bring about a beautiful service.

Words of wisdom. Valedictorian Jennifer Oliver gives her speech during graduation. Jennifer offered advice to the younger students at M&S and to fellow graduates.

Faculty, staff. Sarah Dessart, the Salutatorian, reads her speech. Parents, students, family, and friends delight in hearing speeches given by students.

The Last Walk

As students of Mount de Sales

Alma Mater Mount de Sales. The senior girls who are members of the chorus sing the Alma Mater. Everyone in attendance enjoyed hearing these talented girls sing.

Ready to graduate. Brad Smith and Franklin Smith wait anxiously to process in for graduation. Waiting outside gave all the seniors time to get nervous.

Congratulations! Mrs. Prebble hands an ecstatic Emily Pittard her diploma as she crosses the stage. It was obvious the seniors were ready for this moment.

One last goodbye. Kristi Beall gives a fellow graduate one last hug after graduation. For all seniors, this day was both exciting and sad.

Snoooooze!!! Karen Marshall sports her bathrobe. Robes and slippers seemed to be the most popular accessories of the day.

Vogue! Amanda Koplin flaunts her Tacky Day attire before she even gets to school. Students anticipated the activities of Senior Week.

All in stride! Agon Kabashi relaxes on Out-to-Lunch Day. Seniors wore beachwear and were provided lunch by the alumni association.

Best Friends Forever. Sam Meadows and Megan Sightler get cozy in their pajamas. Seniors found it easy to socialize in their comfy PJs.

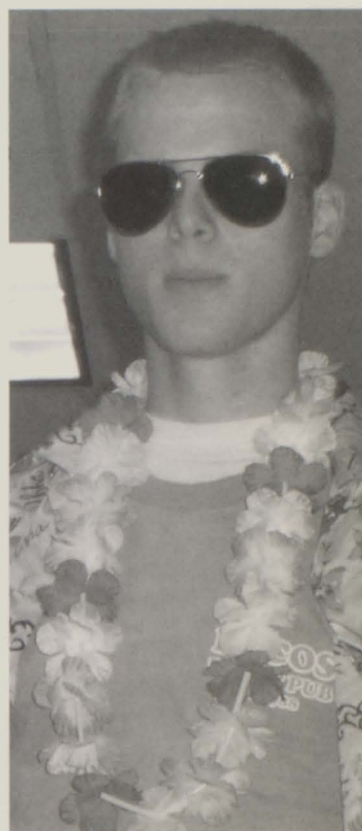

A shoulder to lean on. Paul Elsbernd comforts Sarah Dessart after a stressful morning. Senior Week was fun, but the workload did not lessen.

Wild and crazy! Kristi Beall and Theresa Jurgensen show their true colors. The vibrant and diverse personalities in the senior class were evident throughout the week.

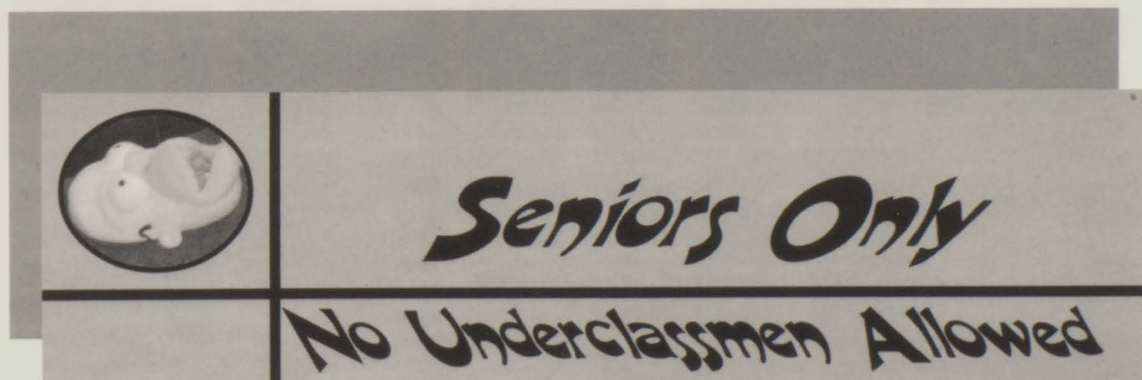

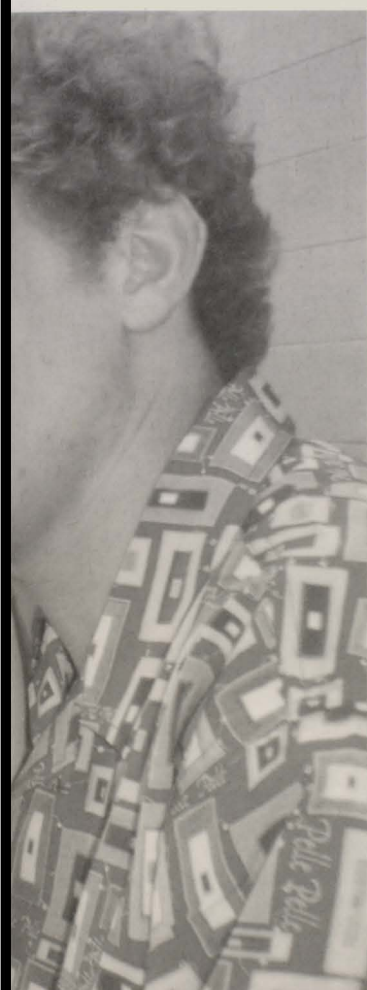

100% UV Protection! Terence Heenan is ready for his day at the beach. Seniors embraced the opportunity to wear sunglasses and hats on this special day.

Delightfully tacky! Catherine Harris proudly parades her mismatched outfit. Tacky Day gave seniors the opportunity to show their individuality.

Helping hands Jessica Asbell and her mom, Ms. Starks, decorate Easter baskets for the Ronald McDonald House. Seniors took time to give back to the community.

Reading Rainbow

A colorful journey into literature

A chapter a day. Freshmen in Ms. Heenan's English class catch up on their assigned reading. Students were tested over the books after they read them.

Hard at work... Kevin Gillespie puts his pen to the paper in hopes of finishing his classwork. Some students found it difficult to finish their work before the bell rang.

YOUR BEST / WORSE EXCUSES

"I love you."
~ Nigel Esser

"I ate my homework"
~ Alan Buck

"What are you talking about?"
~ Shannon Remick

It's all a game... David Bushey and Joanna Akin play a homemade board game in Mrs. Hutto's English class. The game was based on their summer reading books.

Judgement day... Mr. Freeman gives back exams to the seniors. The grade was a determining factor in the outcome of the students' semester grade.

Daydream believer... Myredith Gonzales zones out during an English lecture. Many students had trouble staying focused and awake in some of their morning classes.

Meanwhile in the library... Karen Marshall researches sources for her English paper. Seniors in Mr. Freeman's class had to write a paper over their summer reading books.

What Is Your Favorite Book That Has Been Made Into a Movie?

1. White Oleander
Heather Hartley (9th)
2. A Beautiful Mind
Beth Fransioli (11th)
3. Lord of the Rings

5. Shawshank Redemption
Christian Williams (11th)
6. Willy Wonka & the Chocolate Factory
Patrick Faircloth (10th)

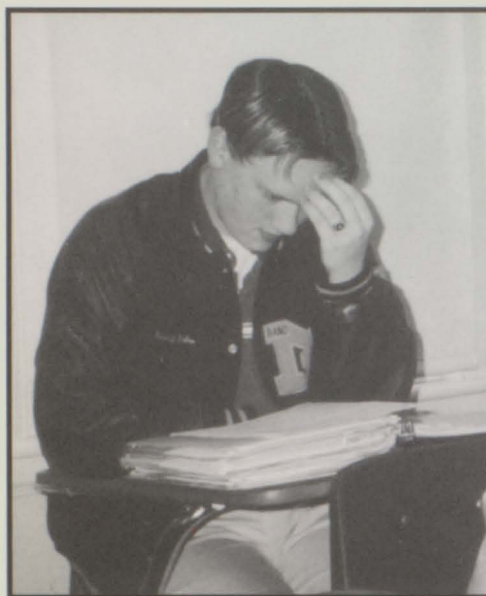

Modern Marvels

History repeating itself

Concentration is key. John David Pinkston reviews his notes from a previous class. Studying diligently helped students be prepared for future tests and quizzes.

Whatever you do, don't pick Enron! Amber Carewell and Chris Jones decide what to buy during the stock market game. The game helped students prepare for real world trading.

If you could meet any histor

"Abraham Lincoln because he made so many changes in our world."
- Amelia Son

"Marilyn Monroe."
- Megan Sightler

"Edgar Allan Poe - to see how he thought and know his inspirations."
- Susan Wright

Make way for royalty. Kenneth Suchower and Dawn Peterson admire a castle built by fellow class mates. This project was a good way for students to learn about medieval architecture.

Note, notes, notes! Mr. Massey's American history class takes notes during a normal school day. Taking thorough notes was important because of challenging exams.

Drama king. Blake Mears and Erica Deeb act out modern versions of African fables. The chance to interpret stories in their own way was a creative way for students to learn.

Paying their respects. The eighth grade American history class explores the grounds of Andersonville. Trips allowed students to make a connection between history and reality.

ical person, who would it be?

"Martin Luther King."

- Raisa Mathews

"Rosa Parks because she could tell me how it was living back then."
- Sh'Tara Rucker

"Kurt Cobain."

- Bryan Weaver

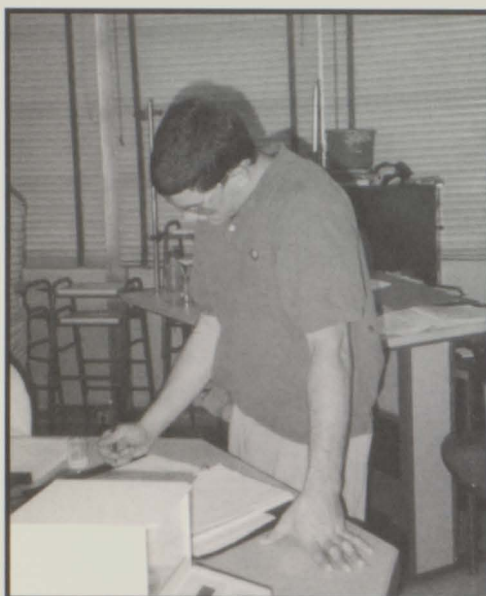

Popular Science

Who Let the Lab's Out??

Cutting Edge... Eric Roberts works diligently to cut out his Christmas ornament. The students enjoyed the break from science as they made their own Christmas gifts.

Hmmmmmm... Erik Hardison records his findings onto his lab sheet. Chemistry challenged students not only scientifically but also mathematically.

If you could be any super hero or have any super powers who/what would it be and why???

Audra Nessing:
"I would be Wonder because I like her."

Jacob Adams:
"Aqua" so I could talk to

Akeem Ramsay:

Steady... Brandon Harris holds a cylinder still as Ashley Stokes carefully drops liquid in and Leslie Jenkins supervises. Being precise was necessary for accurate lab results.

Deep Thought... Soumarin Jones rubs his head in thought while George Johnston concentrates during Environmental Science. Mother Nature was discussed throughout class time.

Oh Man!!... Ryan Ussery can't believe his eyes as he looks on to his classmates' creations. Making trash animals was a fun activity for the whole seventh grade class.

Interesting... Mr. Freeman helps his students enjoy his class by demonstrating scientific law. The students' involvement in hands-on activities led to new discoveries.

"A teacher and a mom."
~Jennifer Lidstone

"A plumber, just like my dad."
~Chris Moskaly

What do you want to be when you grow up?

"I want to be an interior decorator or architect."
~Clare Stiff

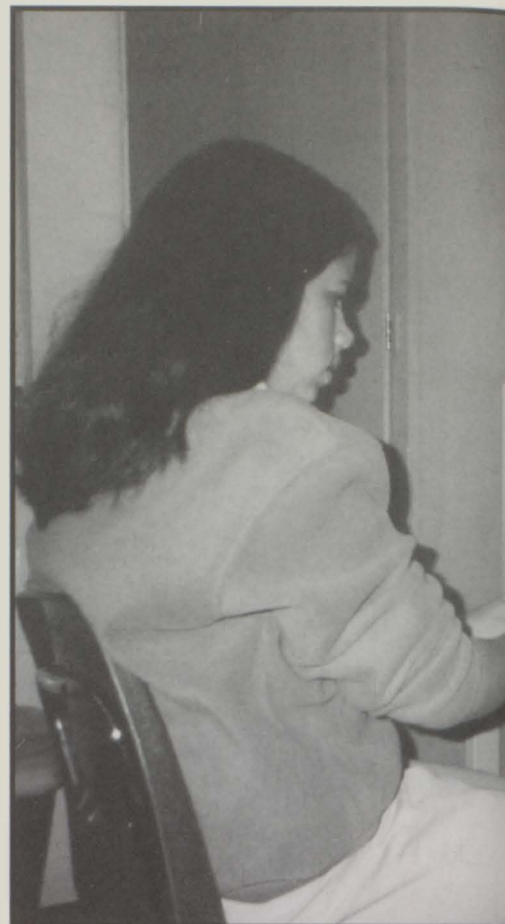

"A trashman."
~Jacob Adams

The Computer Wore Tennis Shoes "Geniuses" at work

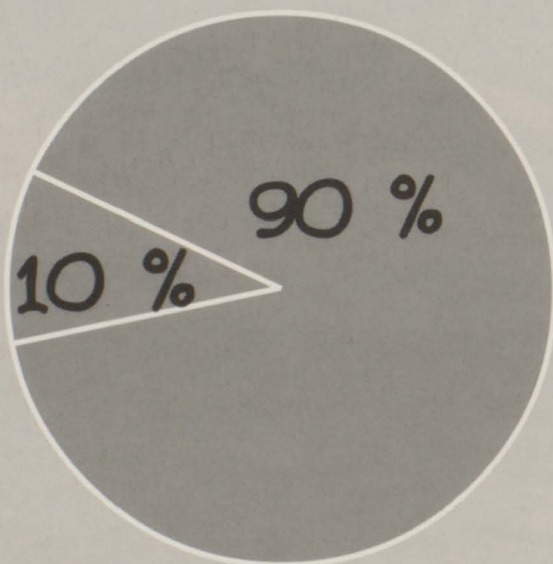

Easy as Dell. Sophomore Taylor Ware focuses intently on a class handout. Computers were useful tools and often assisted students with projects.

Cut to camera two! Mills Misinco controls the cameras at MediaFest. This newsroom experience was one of the highlights of the Presentations and Publications class trip.

Which do you like better, Mac or Windows?

10 % - Mac

90 % - Windows

Welcome to Gateway country. Casey Coley is fascinated by the many wonders of computers. Everyone took time to appreciate the work put into making the network possible.

Dude, you're getting a Dell! A group of junior boys looks at something "awesome" on the screen. Students used free time to experiment with fun computer programs.

Almost done... Katie Beall logs off of her computer as she prepares to go to her next class. Teachers knew that working until the bell rang maximized the learning experience.

The world of Gateway. Brett Rogers practices a typing exercise during his keyboarding class. Students used the computer labs for work that required help from technology.

What type of computer do you have?

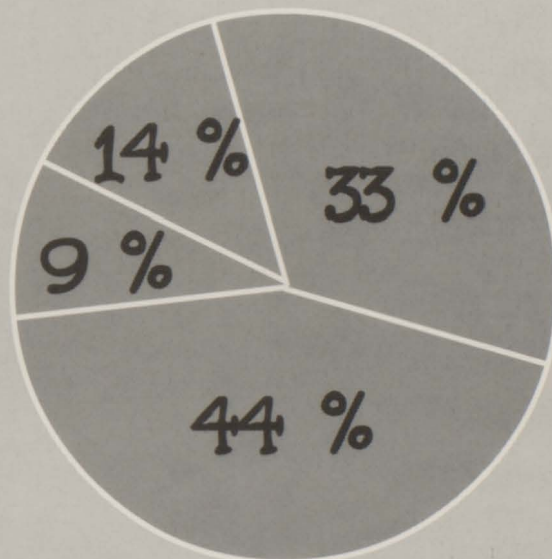

The top four responses were ...

9 % - Apple

14 % - Hewlett Packard

33 % - Gateway

44 % - Dell

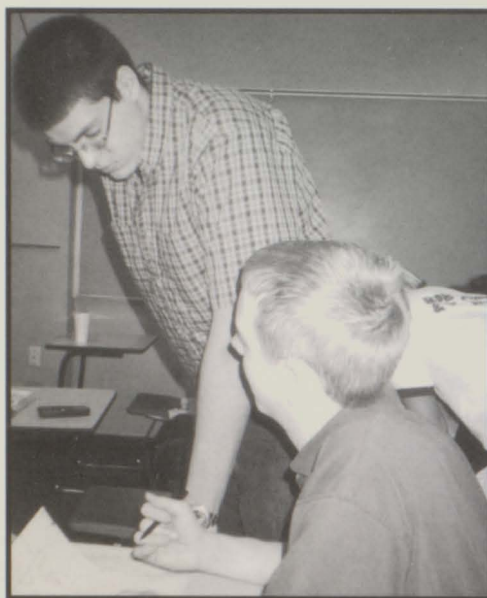

Calculations

It all adds up

Help! Peter Hudson asks Juan Morales for help with his senior math homework. Sometimes it was easier to understand problems from a peer's point of view.

Does this look right? Kelly Kiefer and Stephanie Nelson work during their lunch on math day. Math day participants worked nonstop to complete their assignments.

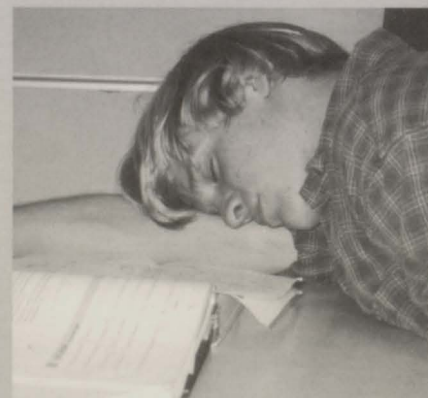

Twisted Math..

Seeing double! Seniors Terence Heenan and Haley Huckabee share the same taste in shirts as well as their love for math. It is important for students to find things in common with each other.

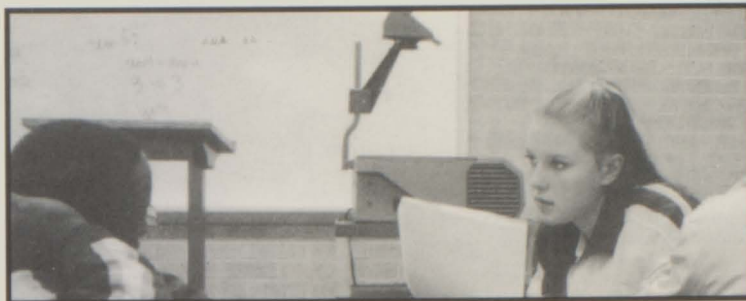

Too Cool! Senior Noel Murray shows off his twisted style while working hard in Calculus class. Students sometimes joked around to make class more entertaining.

Catchin' some ZZZ's... Senior Kyle Schuchmann displays his idea of the perfect math class. Normally students are not allowed to sleep, but after some grueling work he was allowed to rest.

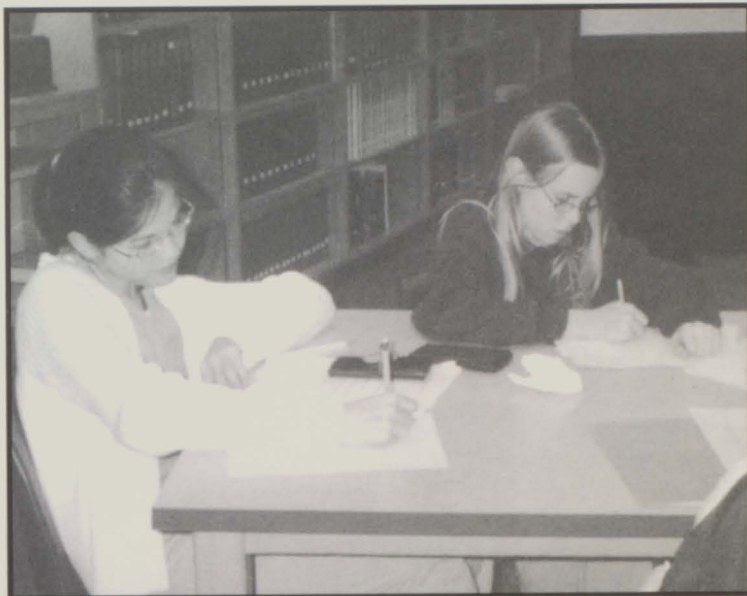

A little bit of teamwork... A group of seventh grade girls work together during middle school math day. Math day was a chance for students to show how smart they really were.

Eat, Sleep, Math. Lauren Allen and Katie Beth Price work around the clock to solve problems for Math Day. Not only was Math Day fun, but students also missed an entire day of class.

Before the bell... Juniors Danielle Grinstead and Quinton Johnson get in a little studying before their quiz. Trigonometry was said to be the juniors' hardest class.

Help, help... Leslie Turner and Laura White turn to Ms. Downer for some guidance. Students often had to go to teachers after school for some extra help.

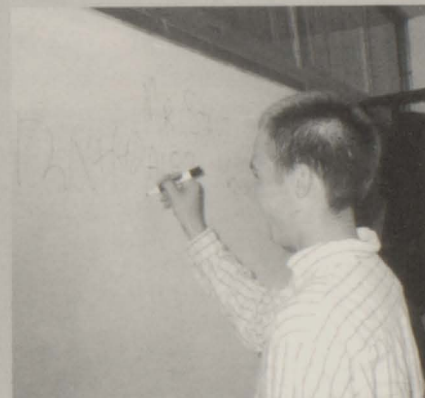

Problems

Not as easy as it seems... Seniors Emily Farman and Kristi Beall prove that they still need group help even in Senior Math. This class provided an alternative to Trig and Calculus for many seniors.

$Y1-Y2/X1-X2=M$... Kelly Herring and Sam Reese are getting a hands-on experience, by measuring the slope of the stairs in Sheridan Hall. Algebra offered students many unique ways to solve math problems.

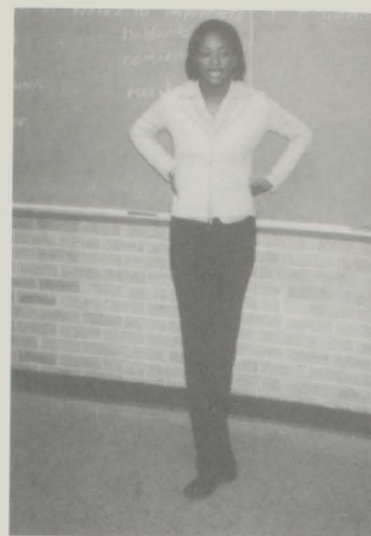

Human Calculator... Sophomore Taylor Ware shows how he can solve complicated math problems with exponents and variables in them. Students usually welcomed an opportunity to work out problems on the board.

Espanol

The Spanish Connection

Let's begin... Miriam Sewell's fluent Spanish impresses everyone in the class. Foreign language was a great way to enrich learning and culture.

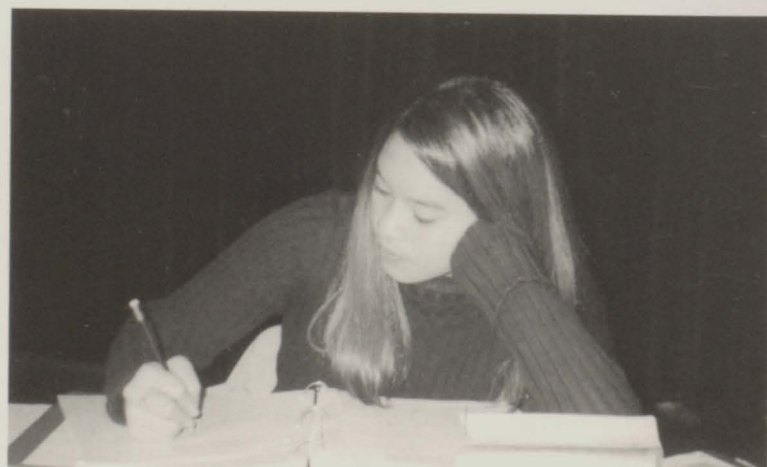

Working together... Lisa Fox, Patrick Slonaker, and Joshua Schaveland work on their Spanish homework. Working with others was better than working alone.

Presentation time!! Ashleigh George, Temia Leslie, and Katherine Mann present their skits to the class. Skits helped students work on pronunciation and dialect.

Hola Dude!! Christian Williams and Clinton Johnson evoke chuckles from the class. Spanish dialogues were often very humorous and original.

Estudia Mucho... Jillian Brosas studies quietly for her Spanish class. Students who worked hard in their classes always excelled in school.

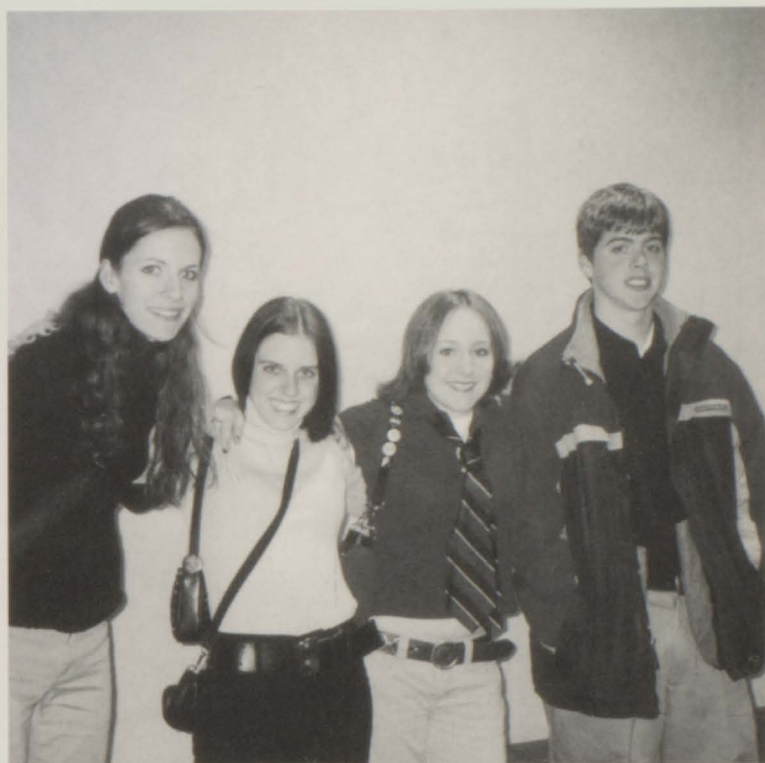

Practice makes perfect! As French students travel to the High Museum they practice their French poems. It never hurt to mix a little learning with fun.

Bonjour French Students...
Danielle Grinstead poses excitedly with Jean-Baptiste. Students looked forward to the arrival of the French visitors.

Francais

The French Connection

Going up... Tired students wait for the slow moving elevator to reach their floor. With so many French students, it was hard to squeeze everyone in on one trip.

Smile for the camera... French students proudly pose for a picture while on their field trip. Everyone was happy to be out of school and out of class.

It's a Paul Sandwich... Two French students surround Paul to capture a memorable moment. This event was ended with the exchange of pictures and friendship.

A Tint of Inspiration

Creativity influences the school.

Understanding art... Katie Garofalo and Caroline Cook work hard to complete their newest art assignment. Students were allowed to draw in their own perspectives.

Who says art isn't fun? Sara Johnson works intensely to create a beautiful work of art. Students were able to show off their art in a gallery.

Perfect! Dana-Marie Vasquez examines her photography work in the darkroom. Students were thrilled to be able to develop their own film.

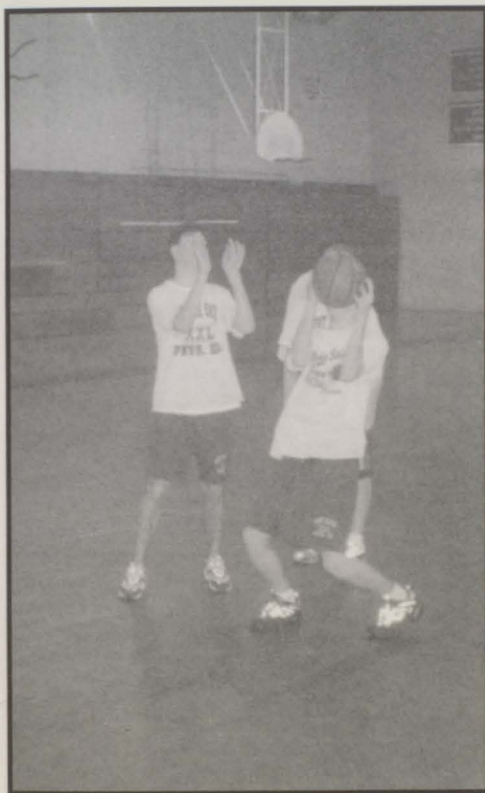

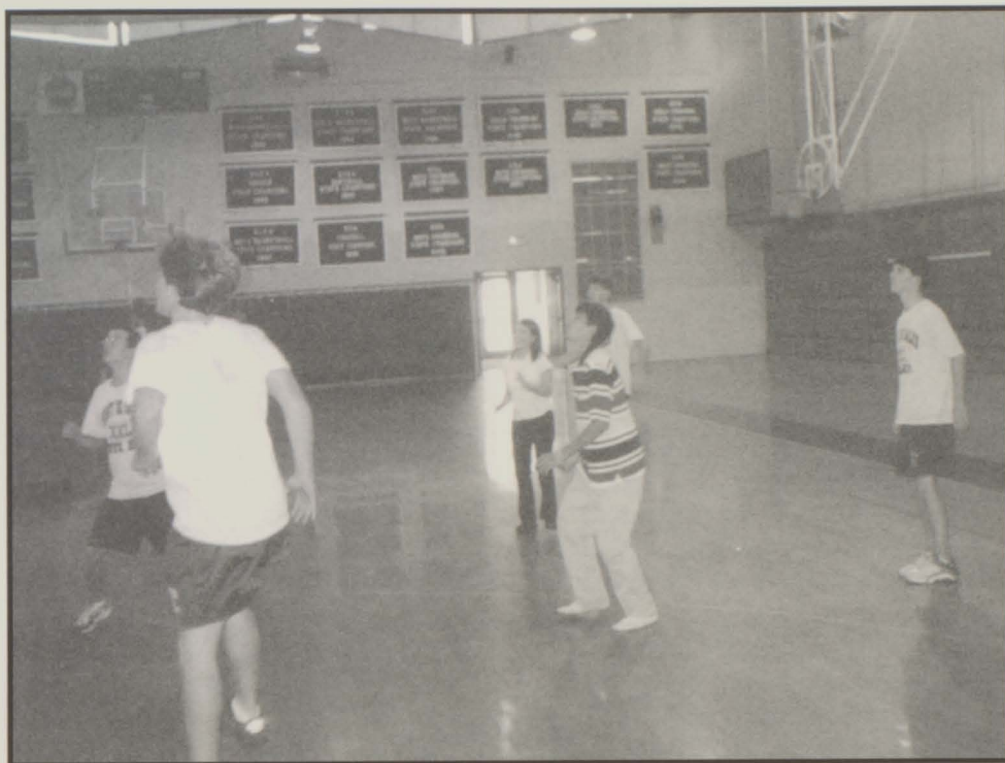

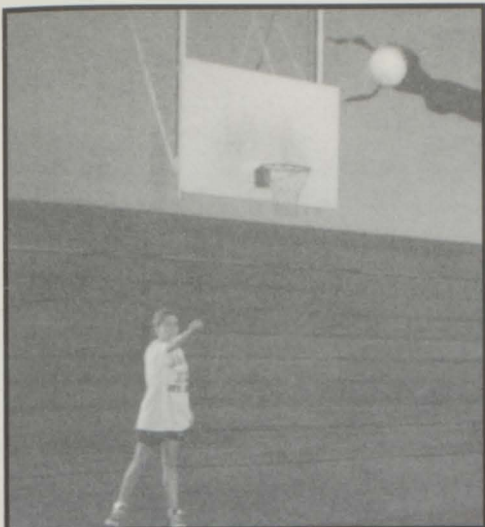

A finishing touch... Rachel and Nana Amporful collaborate on a lamp shade to display for Open House. Students showed off their artistic talents to prospective students.

Scrub, scrub, scrub! Amreen Sidhu washes her paintbrushes after a fun day in art. Cleaning up at the end of class was essential to maintaining the hectic room.

Score! Haley Huckabee serves the volleyball high into the air for a team victory. Students looked forward to P.E. as a break during their day.

Let's Get Physical

Students play rough to stay tough.

Set and Ready! Bryan Benton awaits the volleyball with fellow classmates. P.E. students had much fun playing volleyball.

Give it all you got! P.E. students stretch for their next activity. Stretching, often painful, was necessary to prevent pulled muscles.

3...2...1... Students in P.E practice their jump shots. One-on-one competition gave students a chance to show off their skills.

Slam ball! Kyle Schuchmann tries to block Drew Edwards' shot by jumping in front of him. Basketball was always a favorite activity.

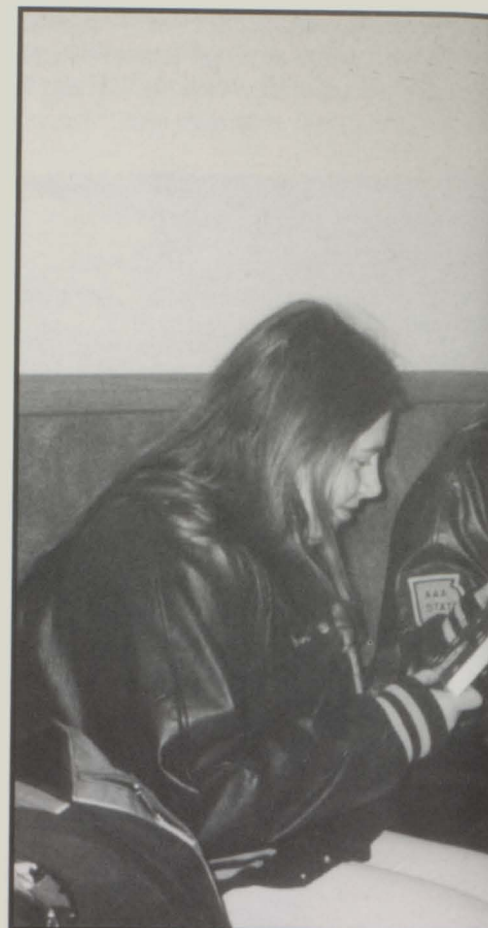

Focus on Faith

A life with God

Working together: Carl Puckett and Anna Kate Kallay act out a scene from 1st Corinthians. Each group completed this as part of their final grade for Letters of Paul.

Here I am to worship! A group of students have Bible study in the chapel every Thursday. Bible study provided a chance for students to share their faith outside of the classroom.

If you could be present at any Biblical event, what would it be and why?

Jesus' Resurrection, because it was an important event to all of our lives.
-Lauren Westfall

God creating the world, just to see what came first, the chicken or the egg.
-Karen Marshall

Noah's Ark, because I like swimming and being around the water.
-Stephanie Stout

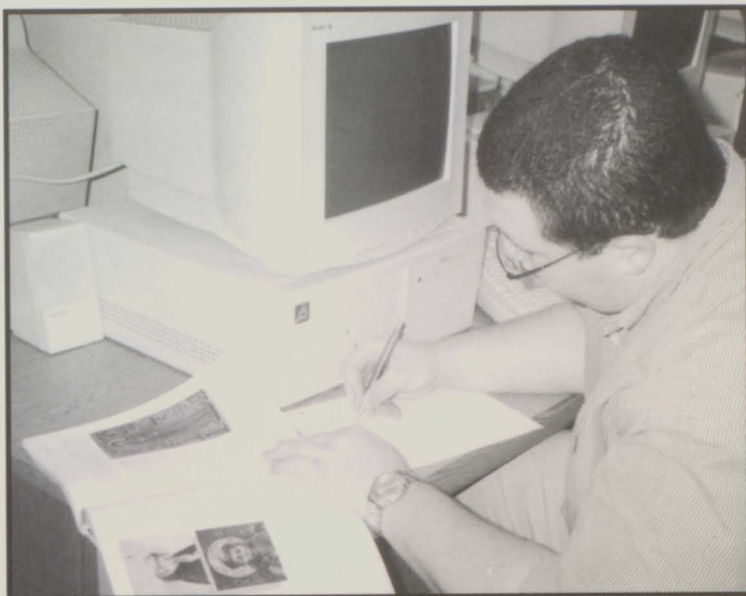

Wake up! Patrick Slonaker catches some zzz's during meditation. Patriarchs and Prophets took a break from normal lesson plans and studied the more relaxing side of religion.

Reflecting on Prayer. Samantha Chronister and Sara Johnson discuss the impact of prayer in their life. The chapel served as a great resource for religion students studying prayer.

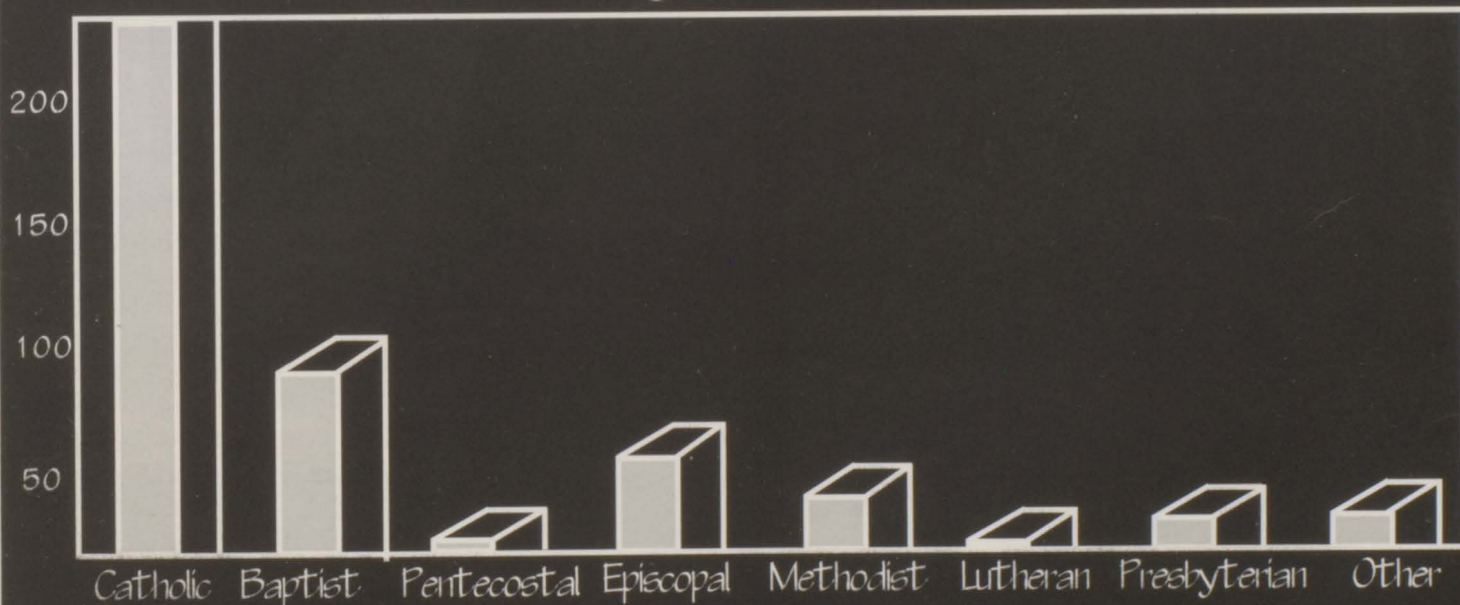

Working for the Lord. Matthew McGrory works feverishly to get World Religions homework done for third period. Homeroom offered just enough time to finish homework.

Life choices... Seniors Seth Story and Matt Webb play a career matching game in Christian Lifestyles. The game helped students to gain insight for possible careers.

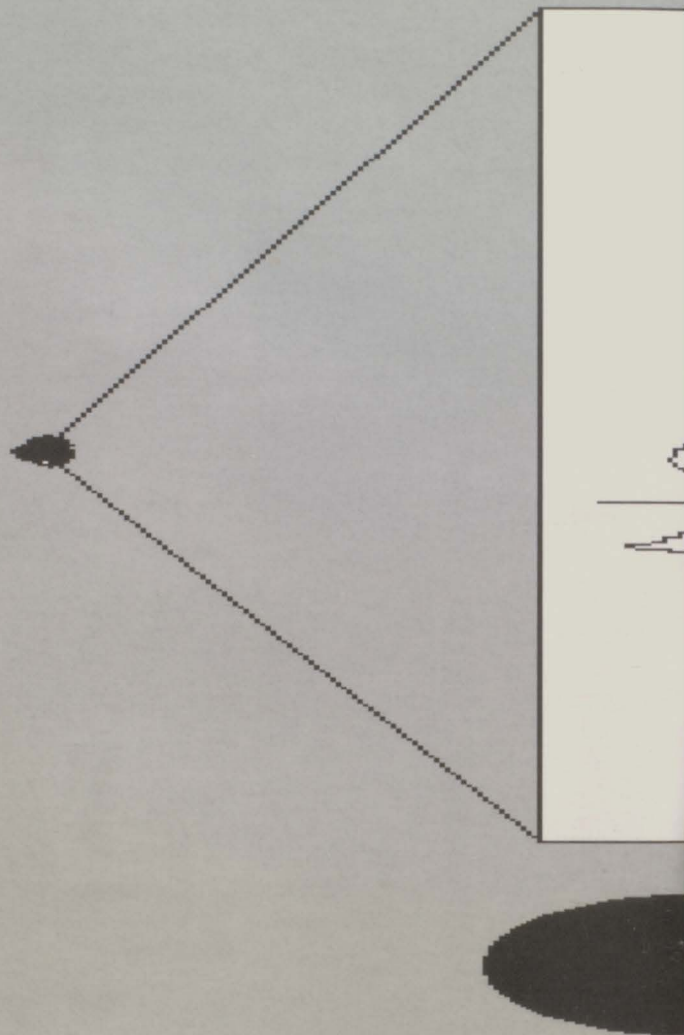

What is your religion?

The Little Rascals

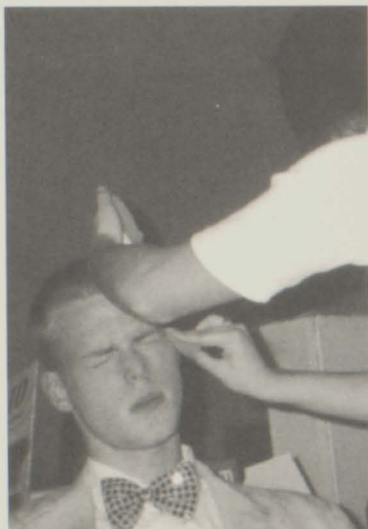

Vikings Knights
Cobras Lancers
Trojans Allowed!

Hey, watch it! Terence Heenan sits patiently through makeup application. Special attention to detail was needed to make the plays extraordinary.

The Masterpiece Theatre

Break a leg. Gray Chapman and Claire Stiff play umpaloompas during the Willy Wonka production. The variety of characters gave everyone a chance to participate.

Fa la la la la.... Cast members of "Smoke on the Mountain" sing in perfect harmony. Vocal abilities were a plus when auditioning for a one-act play.

All aboard! Daniel Harris, Kurt Nießer, and Robert Wooley give the sailor salute. Performing at the Opera House gave more room to work with.

Come to me. Mallory Jones motions for Daniel Harris to come towards her. Great plays took lots of time and effort out of the entire crew.

Salute! Jeannine Olivier stands tall as she performs in Dames at Sea in her sailor uniform. Dancing was a big part of the play.

Boo! Andy Graves and Allison Ducote are getting into character. The Troubadours' personalities shone through in the portrayals of their characters.

Up to beat... Lisa Fox shows her school spirit by playing the drums for the Cavalier Band. The band took great pride in their musical talents.

Music to your ears... Norman Gonzales graces the audience with the piccolo. Some of the band members were multi-talented and played more than one instrument.

Concentration... Sam Reese concentrates on the rhythm as he plays the trumpet. Many other band members found time to play football as well.

The Music Channel

Blow! Alan Buck and Heather Hartley play the clarinet at half-time. The band worked diligently to make half-time exciting for the fans.

As the Spirit Waves

Her arms are tired! Christie Meriwether swishes the ribbon around during half-time. Dancers somehow managed to keep from tangling their ribbons.

Whipping up a storm... Sara Sanders does her thing to the music of the band. Fans found the flag team's performance an enjoyable one.

Flag Team L to R: Ashton Richardson, Natalie Stefano, Olivia Bushey, Sara Sanders, Katherine Arisman, Christie Meriwether, and Patricia Tran

And... 5, 6, 7, 8! Ashton Richardson gives a big finish to a fabulous routine. Her hard work was clearly shown through her performance.

Smile! After an invigorating routine, Christie Meriwether, Natalie Stefano, and Patricia Tran snap a picture. The girls always had time for a photo op.

Tadaa! Olivia Bushey and Katherine Arisman take a pause for the cause. The flag team always kept up a smile for the crowd.

We got the beat. These drummers concentrate on keeping time. The percussion section of the band kept the rest of the band in tune.

Attention here, Jessica Wyche directs the band during halftime at a football game. The halftime shows performed by the band always wowed people in the stands.

Concentration is key. Mikey Upchurch concentrates to get his part right during the halftime show. Members of the band spent many hours practicing outside of school.

Marching along. The Pep Band marches through downtown Macon in the Christmas parade. The band looked forward to events like these each year.

The right notes. Amy Olen plays in the band's performance during a football game. The band's many performances kept everyone waiting to see what they would do next.

the Behind Music

Don't toot your horn. The brass section of the Pep Band entertains the school during a pep rally. Students looked forward to hearing what the band had in store.

Winning Award Sound

Intermission. These girls relax in between songs during a performance. Orchestra members used this time to catch their breath and look at their music.

Keeping watch These girls pay close attention to Mr. Tyner for direction during a performance. With everyone paying attention, most songs went off without a hitch.

Entertainment provided by Greg Flaherty keeps other members of the orchestra entertained. Keeping the mood light was key to having a good performance.

1 & 2 & 3 & 4, Mr. Tyner directs the orchestra during one of their award winning performances. A good director made for outstanding shows.

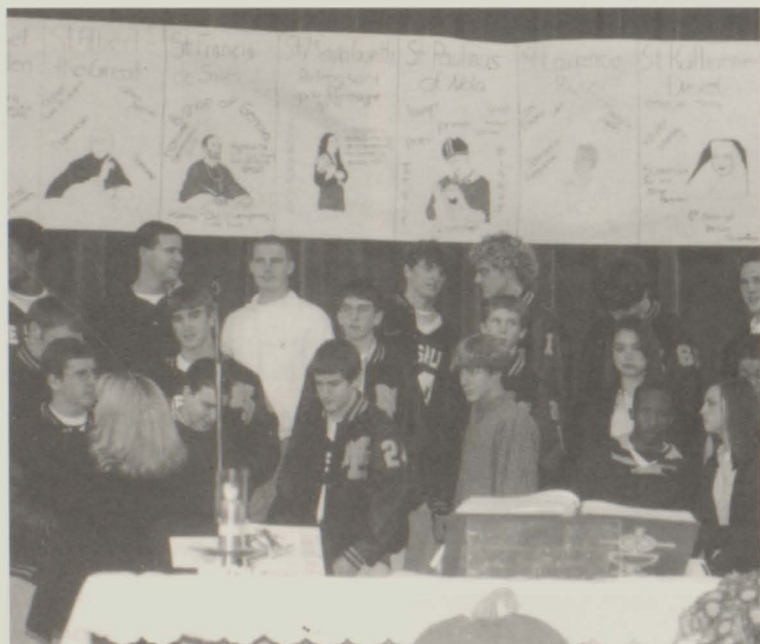

Playing the xylophone. Reed Elsbernd plays the xylophone in the orchestra. Reed's excellent skills provided a good touch to the song being performed.

Boom, boom, boom! Adam Purvis reads music while keeping the beat on the drums. Middle schoolers were a big part of the pep band and orchestra.

[illegible]

Smile!!! Mrs. Washburn gives the chorus members the signal to smile. The chorus not only had to sing well, but had to look happy while doing it.

Intermission. The choir takes a break in between songs at the All Saints Day mass. The breaks allowed the members to rest their voices and prepare for the next song.

Up to beat. The Middle School Chorus sings its heart out for the rest of the school. These students brought something new and fresh to the art of singing.

Glorious sounds. The middle school chorus sing beautiful tunes praising God. The middle schoolers showed promising skills that will make the upcoming years great.

Wonderful tunes Chase Henderson, Kurt Hardison, Clinton Johnson, and Taylor Abernathy sing at the Christmas program. Male singers brought a rich sound to the chorus.

Do we go on now? Erik Hardison and Paul Elsbernd look confused about what to do next. Chorus members occasionally had to be reminded as to what to do.

All together now. The Middle School chorus waits for Mr. Rule to begin playing so they can begin singing. A great deal of practice was needed to have a great performance.

Groovy! This group of girls waits for their signal to sing. The girls brought a very beautiful sound that filled all hearts with joy.

I think I can, I think I can... Emily Pittard waits in anticipation as the ball comes toward home plate. The girls always tried to do their best in support of the team.

Hit a home! Audra Nesson stands at the plate trying to score for the Lady Cavs. Keeping their eyes on the ball usually proved successful for the team when hitting.

Run, Katie, run! Katie Blackburn concentrates while running the bases. Base running was an important element to the team's success.

Who was the MVP of the team this year? Why?

"Brittany (Hartley), she is an all around good player. She's tough and strong. She played a whole game with a broken hand!"

~Rachel Azar

Dear "Pee Wee,"
 Congratulations- you've made it and we're so very proud of you! We've used these pictures of your life as our guide to simple words of wisdom for your future: (clockwise) 1) Take time to smell the roses. 2) Always put your best foot forward.
 3) Hunt for the wisdom to make truly decisions.
 4) Enjoy and savor every second. 5) Get plenty of rest. 6) Help others through volunteering. 7)
 Play hard and remember that you win some and you lose some. 8) Have Fun. 9) Dance like
 No one is watching and
 "Bee" all that you can be!
 All our love,
 Mom, Dad,
 and Brooke

We are so proud of the beautiful young woman you have become. We are truly blessed to have you as our daughter. You have filled our lives with wonderful memories and joy. May all your dreams come true.

Love,

Sunny,
"This bridge will only take you halfway there
To those mysterious lands you long to see:
Through gypsy camps and swirling Arab fairs
And moonlit woods where unicorns run free.
So come and walk awhile with me and share
The twisting trails and wondrous worlds I've known
But this bridge will only take you halfway there---
The last few steps you'll have to take alone."

---Shel Silverstein

"To a Little Yellow Flower"
By Andy Graves

Pooh on you, you little yellow flower
For when it is you I start to smell
It really does make me want to yell
"Your aroma has such power-er-er!"

Oh flower, sitting there
oh so yaller,
I really wish that to me
you would tell
Exactly where it was that you fell
When at you the cat began to glower.

Oh little flower, sitting in the soil,
I see your seeds are beginning to sow.
Hey, over there! A big ol' butterfly!

Oh little flower, me thinks you are spoil(ed)
With everyone looking at you so.
Now, little flower, I must say good-bye!

Andy, we may never understand you,
but we will always love
you!
Thanks for all the laughs!

From teddy bears to boys and cars
We are the lucky ones, by far
To have a daughter
such as you
Who's kind and thoughtful generous, too
A loving heart
with soul and mind
Are blended well
in God's design
The future's looking bright for you
Good luck in all the things you do!

Lord, grant me the common sense to profit by my yesterday, the wisdom to live to the utmost my today, the vision to cope with my tomorrow. Always be happy all of your life. Life is a roller coaster of ups and downs, but you can make it, just anticipate each gift and prepare for it.

We are very proud of you!
Love you lots,
Dad, Grandma, and Papa Pye

Football, blonde hair, and that smile -that's what you think of when you say Kyle.

Congratulations from your Aunts, Uncles, Grandma, Justin and Daddy.

Z,
 Eighteen years ago you brightened our day,
 the rest is history what can we say-
 the good, the bad
 the happy, the sad!
 As you step out on your own,
 we realize how much time has flown.
 You will succeed there is no doubt-that's what this education has been about.
 As you continue down life's road
 you will get tired from all the load.
 Just remember the Lord is with you and to yourself be true.
 You are our sunshine as granddaddy would sing-
 and we are proud of you, you sweet thing!
 Love,
 Your Family

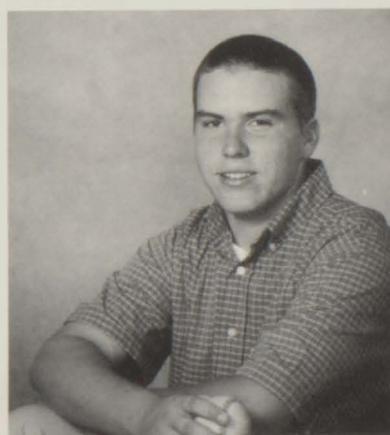

Congratulations
Katie!

We love you and wish
